The senior class, all seventy-three of them, can fit into the reading section of the two story library. Four students complete the roster of Mrs. Hornstra's first Art Major class.

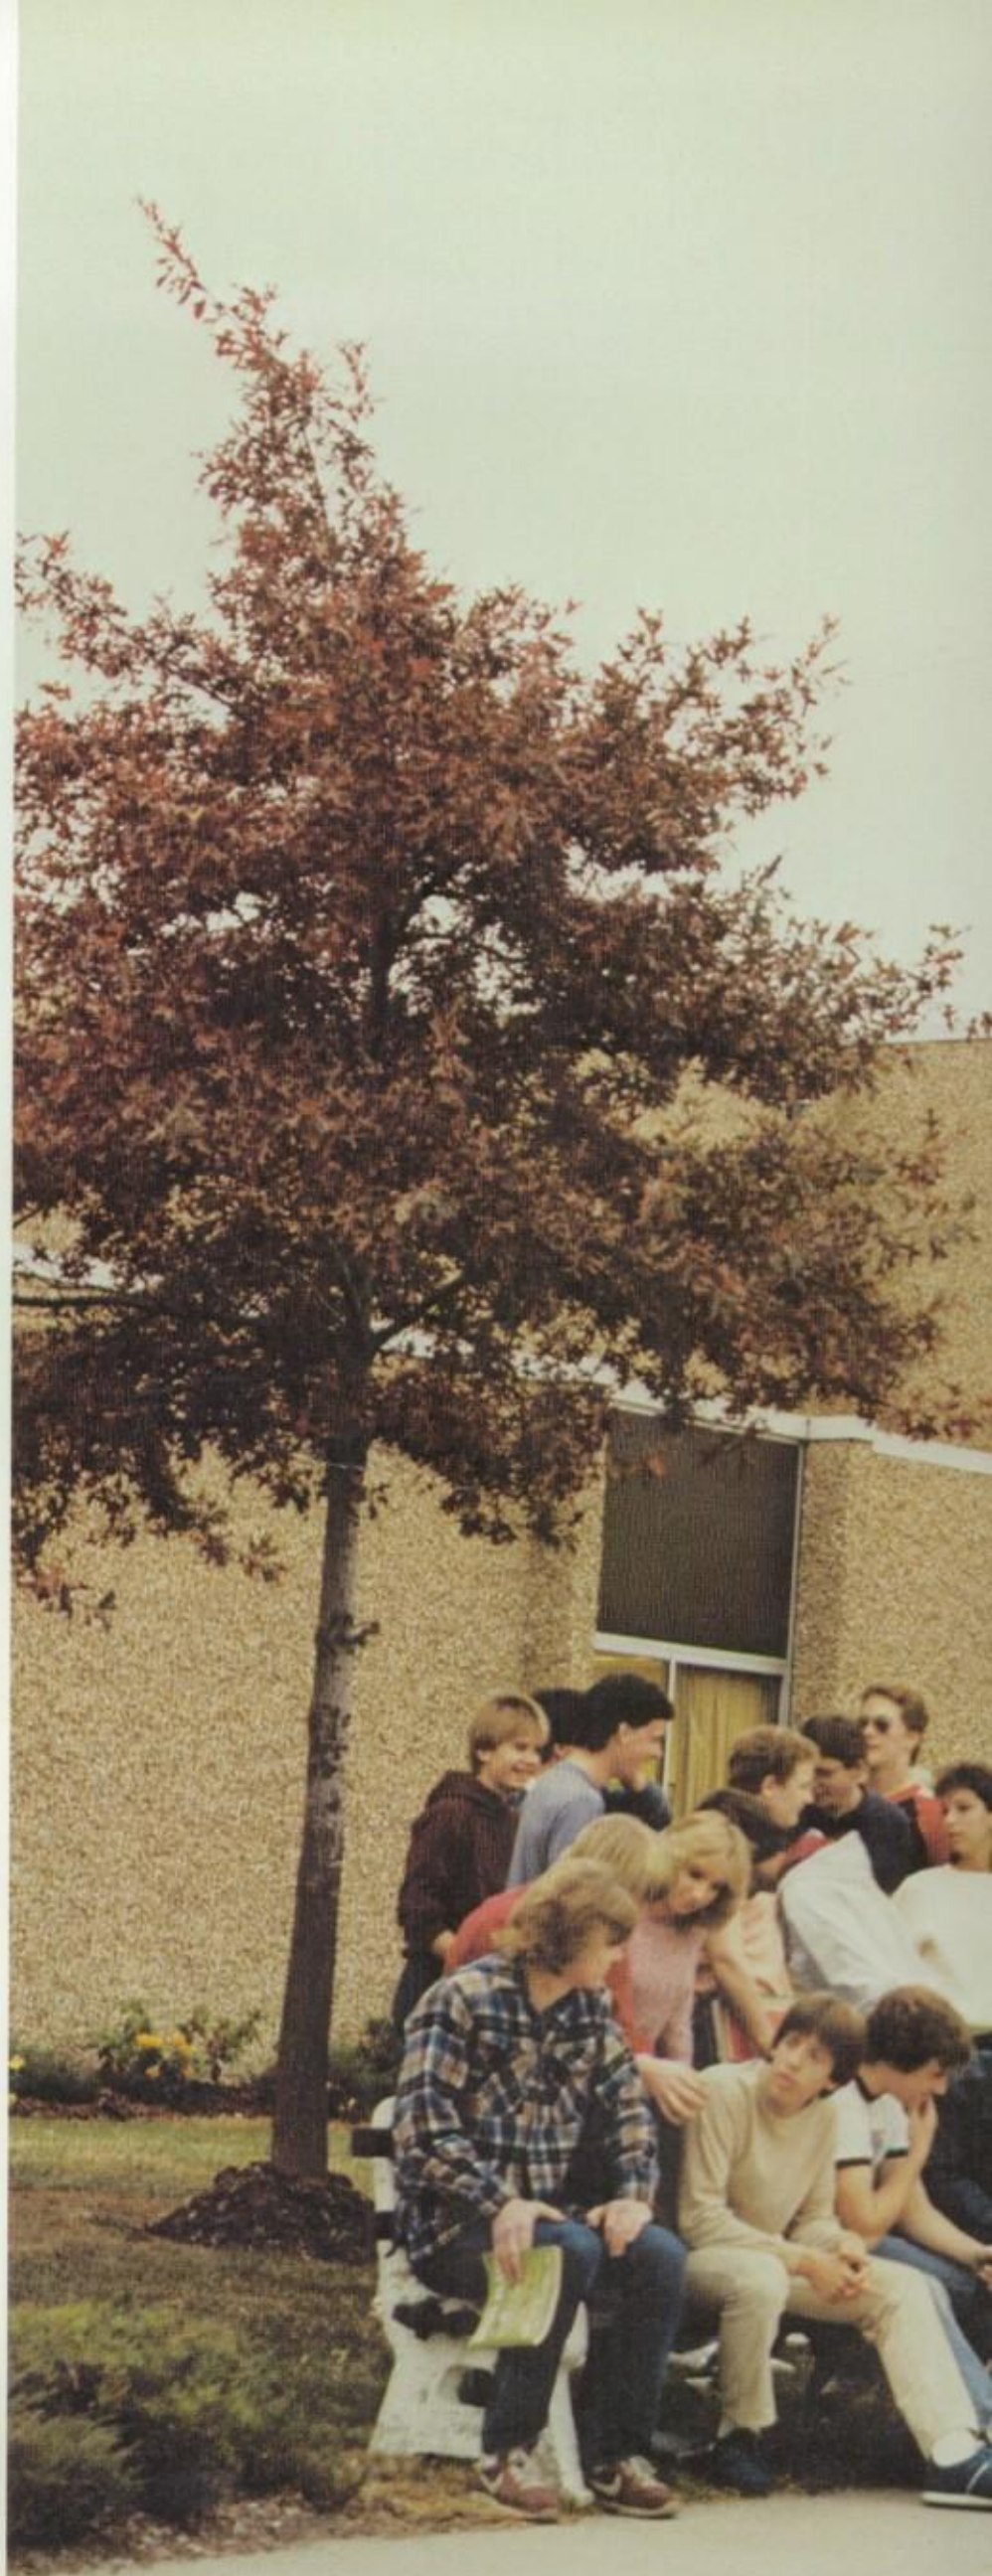

It is fall, 1976, and Vernon Township High School is brand new. At the cost of $6.5 million, the school was built to accommodate 1100-1350 students but boasts only 867 in its first year, including grades eight through twelve.

The lower floor of the library has been converted into four classrooms. Seventeen students file out of Mr. Paul's Art Major class. Mrs. Hornstra's class of eighteen meets a few periods later. The school board has proposed an addition to the school to accommodate more students. The senior class is the smallest class in the school with only 238 members. While the school houses only the four traditional grades, ninth through twelfth, the school population has grown to over 1100. The grounds now boast four beautiful tennis courts.

It is 1985 and Vernon Township High School is celebrating its tenth year of operation. It has been a decade of change and growth — a dynamite decade.

ION TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL

Vernon Has Matured

ten years made a great difference

Vast changes have marked Vernon within the past decade. Ten years ago, 8,000 people inhabited Vernon's sixty-eight square miles. Canistear Road, Highland Lakes' connection with Route 23, was barely more than a dirt path. The center of attraction was the new A&P on Rt. 515. Vernon was a quiet country town.

In 1985, Vernon is a bustling, almost suburban area that has become one of the foremost resort areas on the east coast due to the Americana, Action Park, and the ski areas. Services and stores have grown to fulfill the needs of the 17,700 inhabitants of the town.

The explosion of population the past ten years has made a great difference. Vernon has matured.

Wearing Our pride

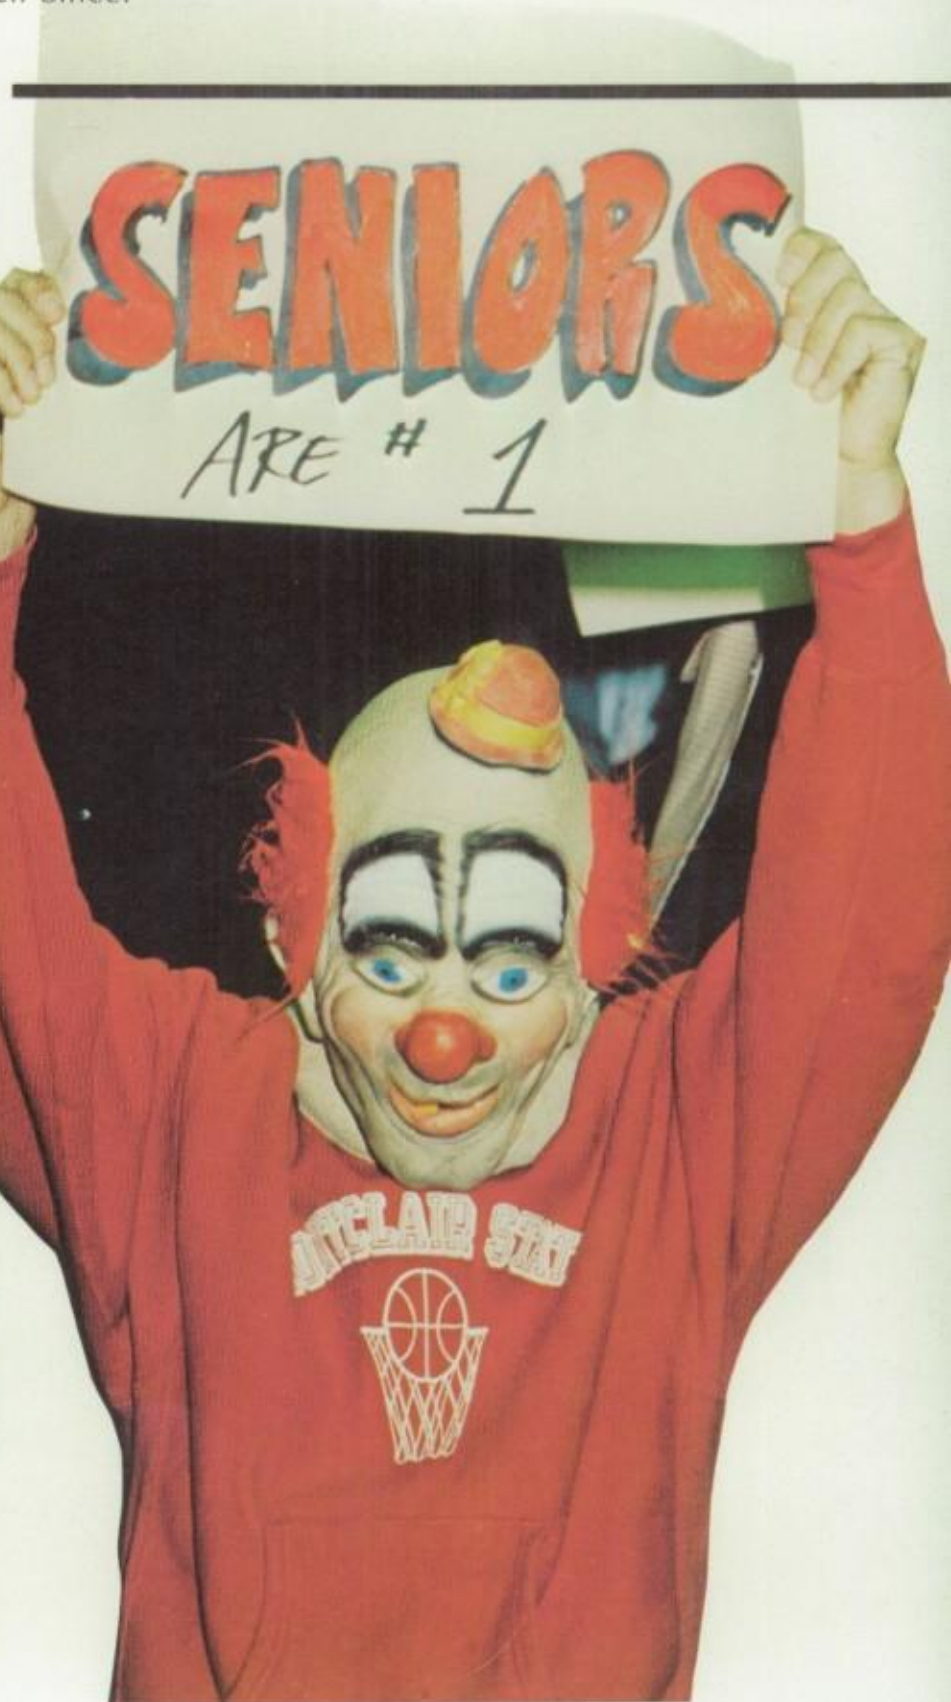

Senior cheerleader, Wendy Marklin displays her pride in VTHS and her enthusiasm for all sports with the "Hello" cheer.

Senior Randi Greene, junior Tammy Eddings, and senior Maureen Chacon are purchasing tickets from Sue Beaver, junior, and Cecilia Walker, senior, in the student council office.

"In order for you to have pride in your school, you must first have pride in yourself."

— L. Jay Schweitzer

Senior Mark Aug led his class in their continuing chant of "We're number one!"

Freshmen Steve Gaspar, a student in Introduction to Mechanical Drawing, is working to complete his plate before the class ends.

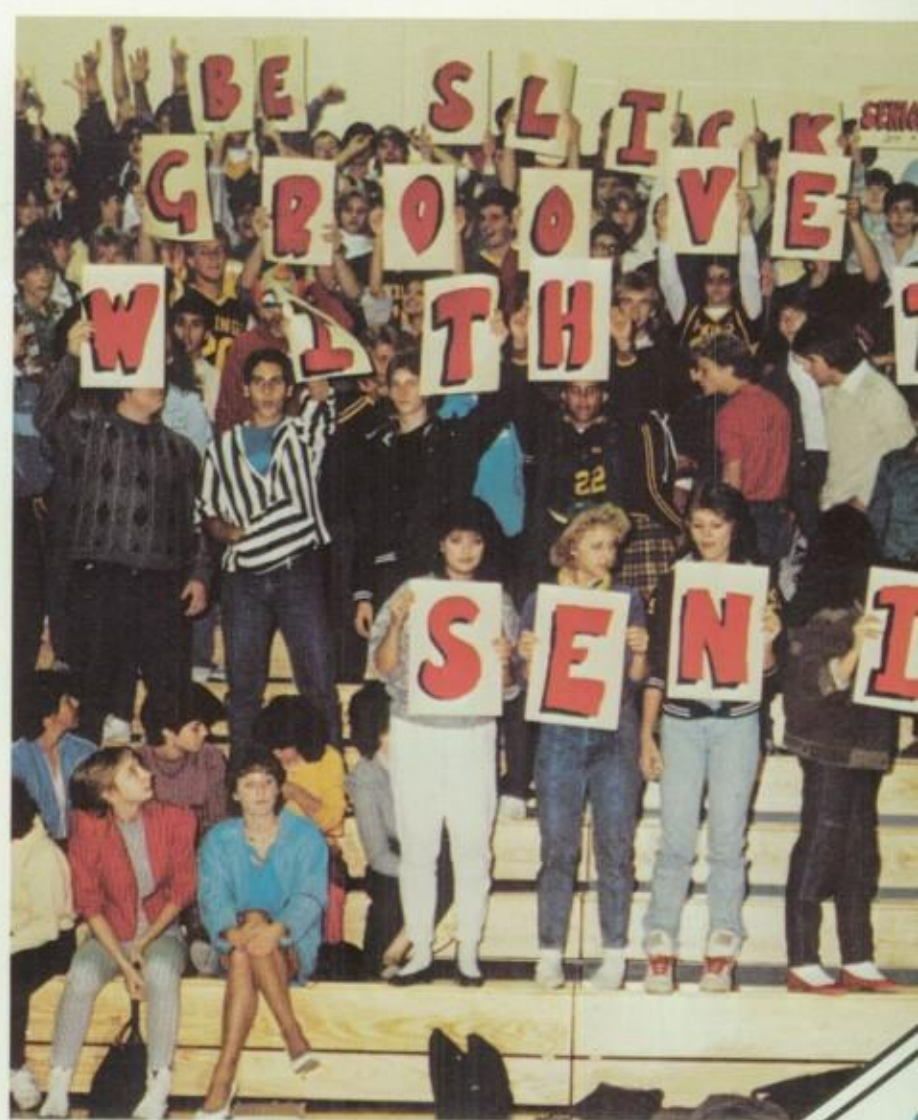

The explosion in sheer numbers has been appropriately paralleled by an explosion of pride in the first decade at VTHS. If pride were to be defined as "a reasonable delight in one's position, achievements, possessions," then, yes, Vernon students should be proud.

- proud of an extensive curriculum that meets the needs of individual students.
- proud of an exceptionally successful athletic program.
- proud of the varied extra-curricular activities.
- proud of an attractive building and excellent facilities.
- proud of the individual and group achievements.
- proud of the people that make up VTHS.
- proud of Vernon Township High School.

Let's Go Crazy

Spending hours with your nose in a book . . .

Getting writer's cramp day after day . . .

Waiting impatiently for the 2:13 bell . . .

Actually only 22.4% of a weekday is spent in the class room. So where does the rest of the day go? Relaxing, talking, joking, forgetting the test you just took . . . Hanging out at your locker, lounging in the library, pigging out in the lunch room, and waiting for the real excitement to begin . . .

Students indulge in, what is for them, all out fun. Friday's hallway electricity is a build up for the coming festivities. To each his own. Prince's hit single tells the story of student life — "Don't hold back . . . Go Crazy!"

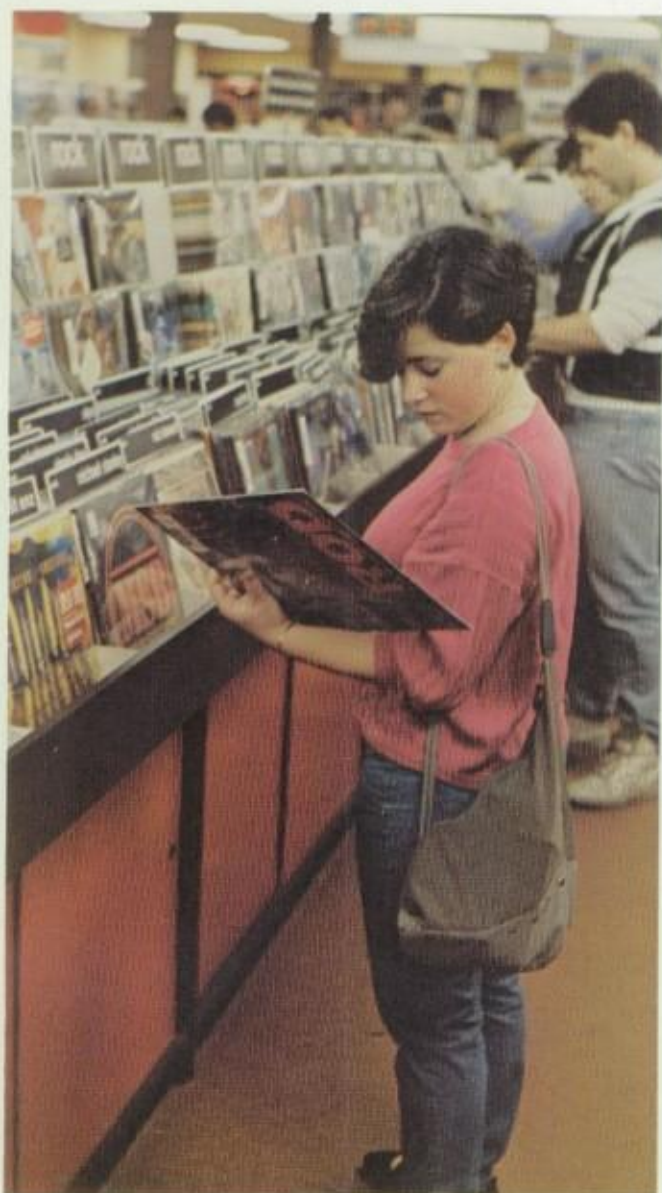

Sights and Sounds Arrive

Fads come and go. The newest fad — video music — may be here to stay. Check out the concert shirts and leather jackets for a direct result of the latest video craze.

Although cable has not found its way into all corners of Vernon Township, MTV can be seen at a friend or relative's home. Rock music and music news provided by this station have become the staple diet of devoted fans. Video tapes are rented and purchased for VCR's at Video Pavillion and Video to Go.

Tape and cable have saturated our senses with wild sights and sounds. It's the closest thing to being front row center.

Even in the 80's the choice of Grateful Dead cassettes show that there are still "dead-heads" clinging to the 60's sounds.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Seeing double? Not really. They're Cindy and Sue Kuenzler, senior twins, who are not identical but look enough alike to confuse friends and teachers. They object to being referred to as the Kuenzlers because it takes away their individual identities. Along with most of the twins at Vernon High, they have mixed feelings about being twins.

Having someone to depend upon, someone to talk to, someone to understand, and someone to share with are advantages of being a twin. Switching identifies can be fun but it can also present problems. Robin DeVries broke a school rule and her twin Lisa got suspended. Twins also admit that being called by the wrong name or being given matching clothing can be insulting. Sharing similar interests, styles, or tastes seems natural to the twins, but, please, remember there are two, separate, different, unique individuals.

Who is who? That's the question when people see Sandy and Cindy Wells, Lori and Carol Spring, Jayne and Eileen Preste, Sue and Cindy Kuenzler (left) or the triplets (below) Robin, Kim, and Lisa DeVries.

Above: A common question asked of twins is — have you ever switched classes? Jayne and Eileen have tried and they succeeded for half of a school day! Jayne and Eileen enjoy being twins as well as being together. Once you get to know them you'll have no problem matching their names with their faces. Left: Twins reach out and touch each other — physically, mentally, and emotionally. The twin pairs pictured are George and John Catanzaro, Matt and Valerie Stoekel, Teddy and Elizabeth Decker, Jill and John Howell, Steve and Chris DeVosa, and Jim and Cathy Donahue, "Camera shy" twins are Marianne and Bob Papay and Sheila and Tom McGinnis.

In pursuit of trivia

How many books are in the VTHS library? Around 15,000 would be everyone's guess, right? Not many people know such trivia facts, but nevertheless, the game Trivial Pursuit is one of the hottest selling board games of the year. Over 10 million copies were sold in 1984. Just ask Joceline Georgette, one of the notoriously popular cabbage patch kids! Yes, the fad of 1983 is still hanging on.

Self-employed seniors Rich Jansen and Lenny Rinaldi started their own lawn care business in early May 1984. As Rich said, "we were tired of working for other people and wanted to be our own bosses."

The L & R Lawn Care Service is a two-man operation that serves the Vernon area. This seasonal job takes care of gardens, lawns, shrubs, hedges, and pruning. Lenny and Rich own all their own equipment eliminating costly rentals. For the year 1984 their gross income was ten thousand dollars most of which went for gas, a new used truck, and a professional gas-powered mower.

Ken's Classic Car Waxing

THE ULTIMATE CAR CARE

POLISHING BY:
KENNETH SCHNABEL

VERNON TWSP. NJ

Not limited to classic cars, Ken Schnabel will clean and wax just about anything from cars to boats. He and his father started the waxing as a hobby just two years ago. When Ken's dad got tired of the project, Ken found himself in business and all alone. There is very little overhead and according to Ken, "it's easy money." Ken is willing to travel to Franklin, Sussex, or anywhere in the Vernon area and he boasts of satisfied customers.

On the Job Training

Decision time is just around the corner. Seniors may have already made that decision and might have opted for the military. Training in the armed forces of our country is an alternate to college, technical school, or the job market.

When the choices are weighed, one or two out of every fifty seniors will choose the military. The enlisted students have looked at the great benefits — medical, dental, optical health plans, excellent training, free room and board, opportunity to travel — and elected to serve their country in an essential way. Mark Miller enlisted in the Marines because he “wanted training and the military offered the best for free.” Darrell Corti wasn’t absolutely sure what he wanted to do with his life and believed the service would “give me time to think about it and give me useful life skills at the same time.” Tracy Jennings hopes the Navy will give her “a great opportunity to improve.”

Nice to be needed

Volunteers essential to school and community

Thank you for all your time, effort, and expertise. You are so good at what you do. We appreciate you. That goes for all the volunteers in our school and in our community.

Candy strippers work at St. Anthony's Hospital in Warwick and Wallkill Valley General in Sussex. Junior fire fighters are trained to offer essential services and first aid specialists work on the ambulance squads to help people who need it the most.

Every coach has a special place in his or her heart for the statisticians and managers that relieve the coach from a few of the headaches that go with the job. They keep records, take care of equipment, and stand by to be of assistance.

Special thanks go to those individuals who are elected but serve without pay to provide students with the best in education. Board members give more than their share in the line of duty. Mr. Philip Ruffo was one of these special people who was on the board for four years, serving on numerous committees. He often appeared in the schools he served and will be affectionately remembered by many. He, like all the people who volunteer, was needed.

Mr. Philip Ruffo

This Dance Is For Mike

Dancing to the beat of the music while DJ Express kept things moving, the students of Vernon High did more than just enjoy themselves. They were raising money to assist Mike Gerber (above) with the high costs associated with his liver disease.

Some of Mike's expenses include traveling to and from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania where he receives special treatments and medications. His doctor bills, hospitalizations, and eventual surgery will put the total cost out of sight. Last winter, Mike worked at Vernon Valley to help reduce some of the expense to his family. Just days before graduation in June of '84, Mike had a close call when varicose veins erupted in his throat.

Mike patiently awaits a liver donor to make possible the transplant that will allow him to lead a normal life. Student Council dance chairperson Cheryl Spoerl hoped that the more than two hundred dollars raised at the Snowball Dance will start Mike on his road to recovery.

Canada . . . or bust!

"Are we there yet?" was asked again and again by the fifty-eight seniors traveling on an eight-hour bus ride to Canada. The buses pulled away from VTHS at midnight on February 17, 1985 and arrived in Montreal City at 8 am the next morning.

The following days included a tour of the old cities of both Montreal and Quebec, shopping in the new underground malls, browsing in the quaint shops along city streets, skiing at le Chautecler, and exploring the unknown in free moments.

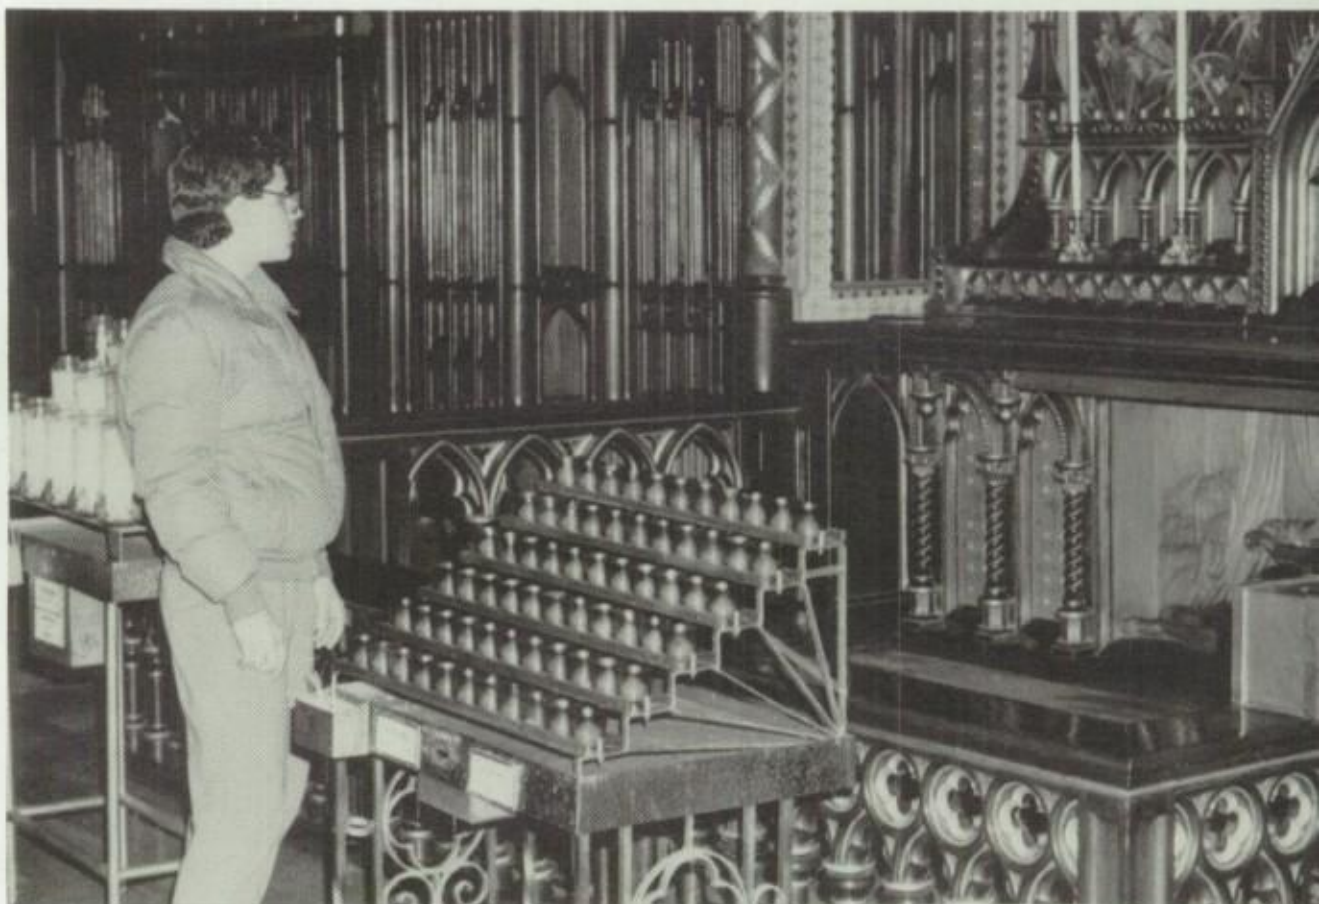

When casual acquaintances and best friends find themselves traveling, shopping, skiing, eating, and sightseeing together, the bonds become stronger. The memories of the first senior trip to Canada and the first trip during winter vacation should remain recorded in the hearts and minds of all who made the trip.

We found something special that we didn't know we had. Happy traveling!

Go for Gold

Competition in its truest sense was displayed in Los Angeles during the 23rd Olympic Summer Games of 1984. Sports such as gymnastics, track and field, diving, and boxing were only a few of the many competitions which were held. The participants were competing not only for themselves but for their countries. Some competitors who were virtually unknown were thrust into the lime-light and overnight became household names.

Julie-anne McNamara, 18, Ecaterina Szabo, 17, and Laura Cutina, 16, were only a few of the gymnasts that tumbled their way in the hearts of many. But it was America's Mary Lou Retton with her strength and vivacity that took the gold in women's gymnastics. Mary Lou's toughest competitor was Rumania's Szabo. Both girls were equally matched for the most part, but when Retton's coach Bela Karolyi held up a paper showing her that she needed a 9.95 to tie and a 10 to stand alone and capture the gold, Mary Lou went for and earned a perfect score.

Another competitor who was catapulted to fame was the awesome Carl Lewis. His dream was to win the gold. "A gold medal is first. The world record is last." This was Carl's motto. Lewis won four gold medals in track.

Many others also had their olympic dreams come true. Joan Benoit placed first in the newest olympic event, the women's marathon; Greg Louganis stood alone among divers. But still others had dreams shattered. Mary Decker stumbled in her race.

No one who was there will ever forget.

Landslide for Reagan

Reagan/Bush '84 read one election button. Vote Mondale/Ferraro read another. Hey, wait a minute; isn't Ferraro a woman? Indeed, she is! The 1984 Presidential elections presented a historic first. Fritz Mondale chose Geraldine Ferraro as his running mate, placing a woman on the platform of a major political party and in position to be the first female vice president of the United States.

Because she was a woman, Ferraro had to be more than just a candidate. She had to be feminine, yet strong. She had to be alert, resilient, intelligent and, at the same time, appear calm, cool, and collected. Many said Ferraro was picked just to balance the ticket, but, for whatever reason, she took a giant step for womankind. When Mondale made his decision for a running mate, Ferraro did not fear that she would be blamed if the democrats lost. And she was not, even though they lost by a landslide.

It was very much Reagan/Bush in '84. 1984 through 1988 should be interesting if we believe Reagan when he promised that "we ain't seen nothin' yet." Some people were concerned about the president's advanced age so signs were made to read "Ronnie's not getting older, he's getting better."

Silent Night, Deadly Night

Time magazine called it "the worst industrial disaster ever." At approximately 1 a.m. on December 3, 1984, a tank containing 45 tons of a lethal chemical called methyl isocyanate used to make pesticides began to spread its poisonous fumes over the sleeping town of Bhopal. Around 11 p.m. a worker for Union Carbide noticed that the pressure was building in a tank containing this chemical. Just two hours later the vapor had blanketed the area. Many people had no idea what was happening. Some thought it was the plague or a nuclear bomb while others thought the end of the world was at hand.

Although this shocking disaster was not the only industrial mishap of the year, it was by far the most devastating. While some 3000 people were critically ill, 2500 were reported dead and 150,000 overall were treated at hospitals in or around Bhopal.

Have a heart

The Jarvik-7 sounds like a life-threatening contraption from a science fiction novel. But on the contrary, the Jarvik-7 is the artificial heart that was transplanted into the body of 52-year old William J. Shroeder in early December, 1984.

This was only the second time in history that surgeons attempted to replace the human heart with a machine. The first attempt performed on Dr. Barney Clark in 1983 prolonged Clark's life for 112 days.

This second operation took place at the Humana Hospital Audubon in Louisville and was performed by Dr. William DeVries. After he surgery when asked if he would like anything to drink, Shroeder's first thoughts were of beer. Although Shroeder received only ice chips he remained in high spirits nonetheless.

Despite the many ups and downs in Shroeder's health after his operation, at the time of publication he was doing well with the arvik-7.

Last ditch attempt to prolong life

On October 14, 1984, a newborn girl identified only as "Baby Fae" had a life expectancy of just a few days. She was born with a lethal heart defect and only a heart transplant could save her. Because the surgeons at the Loma Linda University Medical Center didn't have time on their side, they resorted to an available procedure. Their decision was to implant a baboon's heart into Baby Fae. Dr. Leonard Bailey had already performed over one hundred fifty "xenografts" (a transplant from one species to another) but mostly from lambs to goats.

Baby Fae was afflicted with a problem that affects one out every twelve thousand newborns. Her problem occurred when the left ventricle did not fully develop and is called "hypoplastic left heart syndrome."

This specie-to-specie transplant operation was performed only once before with a human involved. In 1964 a 68-year-old Mississippi man was implanted with a chimp's heart but died within hours of the operation.

Although Baby Fae had the support and prayers of many, she died one week after surgery. Even though the transplant was not a success and raised many moral questions, it was a milestone in science and an alternative that could solve the shortage of organ donors in America.

First Miss America to relinquish her crown

At the end of 1984, Parade magazine voted Bob Guccione Publisher of Penthouse magazine the dubious distinction of needing more "class." Guccione had published questionable photographs of Vanessa Williams, Miss America 1984. These same compromising pictures had been first offered to Playboy but were rejected. After Tom Chiapel's photos were published, Vanessa was publicly asked to relinquish her crown.

The pageant's general counsel was quoted as saying that Williams had been a good Miss America but the pageant had to protect the wholesome image of Miss America.

Williams "never really felt like a beauty queen." The pageant and title were important to her but not as important as her life as a music theatre major at Syracuse University. She is the daughter of two music teachers from Westchester, New York.

As a twenty-one year old black woman, Vanessa felt somewhat uncomfortable with her title and the added responsibility of being the first black Miss America. She said that just because she was black she would not support all black positions.

REVIEW 1985

The three C's

Competitiveness . . . Consistency . . . Championships — 10 years of sports at Vernon Township High School can be described with these three terms.

The Vikes have scattered championship S.C.I.L. teams throughout the decade including Girls Cross-Country '77, '78, '83, Girls Basketball '77, '78, Boys Basketball '78, '79, Baseball '82, '84, Boys Cross-Country '82, '83, '84, Soccer '82, and Boys Track '84. State championships include the Ski Team in '82, '83, and '84, the Baseball Team North I, Group II in '79, the Girls' Field Hockey Team North I, Group II in '80, and the Boys' Cross-Country North I, Group III in '83.

Even when Viking teams are not collecting titles, the dedication, hard work, and will to improve can still be found in the hearts of our athletes and coaches. Upsetting a strong contender, or even just giving them a run for the money is normal for the fighting Vikings. Rising to the occasion, the Vikes' desire to win can often be overwhelming and sometimes even victorious.

Our athletic program has also produced some fine individual performances from a variety of sports. Stand-outs such as Jan Michaels who was the State Champion Wrestler in 1978-79 and Kris Peat who was named to the High School All-American Soccer Team. All-in-all, Viking rosters have placed 185 dedicated athletes on the All-Area Teams — including Sussex, Morris, and Warren Counties — since 1975.

Three cheers for Vernon's successful athletic program — a competitive, consistent program that produces champions.

And they're off

"We didn't win because of one individual; we won because we ran as a team."

Douglas Castellana

A reoccurring sight — Coach "C" urges his runners to put forth that extra effort that brought the boys a 28-29 victory.

Running to their Personal Best

Mr. C. and "Mom" had a lot to cheer about. In the 1984 Cross Country season both teams crossed the finish line as winners. The boys took first in the SCIL again. Both teams had their share of health problems but managed to compensate for them.

While Matt Wiedbrauk was on the injured list for a good part of the season, Tim Connelly filled in the first man position. Behind him ran a pack of talented underclassmen, a few of whom were first season runners. When Wiedbrauk came back, Vernon had a great one-two combination that helped to clinch the SCIL title.

Although the girls finished third in the league they managed to give their competitors a good race every time. With both Ann Marie and Noel Knecht sidelined occasionally, the rest of the girls had to run harder to show they had the will to win. The addition of Ms. Downes, or "Mom" as she was called, was a psychological help to the team.

When asked about his impressions of this season, Mr. Castellana responded that it was a "series of peaks and valleys. We lost Matt for the first three meets; then he came back. We lost Dan. We lost to Sparta; we defeated Jefferson." He also said that whenever he thought his runners were mentally or physically down, they proved him wrong by having truly outstanding days. The most important aspect of the season was not winning or losing but giving their best. The runners depended upon one another.

Vernon Surprised High Point in Rematch

Anticipating great things, the Viking stick-gals were on the hockey field for the first day of practice on August 28. With tremendous effort they prepared for their opening game on September 17 and came out on top with a 3-0 decision over Hopatcong.

Unfortunately the season record of 9 wins and 11 losses only shows the final scores and not the effort, skill, and domination that was portrayed in the games. The offense was lead by Renee Boeren with seven goals and one assist for the season. Sherri Pearson was a major part of the defense and named Athlete of the Month for October. The team made an impressive comeback after a losing streak to upset High Point, the number 2 ranked team in the S.C.I.L.

Viking link Cathy Cowan and a Chief defender fight for a loose ball. The Viking ladies put on a good offensive show in their 3-0 win over Hopatcong.

Sophomore Patti Dzikowicz scored one of the three Vernon goals against Hopatcong on September 14; with her stickwork, Dzikowicz should prove to be a threat to future Viking opponents.

Senior Sherri Pearson defends the Viking goal while goalie Sue Parak anticipates a shot on goal from the Hopatcong squad. Parak was credited with three saves.

Senior Kelly Higgins intimidates the Hopatcong Chiefs by stealing a ball during the opening day contest. Higgins later scored one of the three Vernon goals.

Renee Boeren had opportunities to put the Vikes ahead with a score. Vernon had 26 shots at the goal but only made 3 count. Hopatcong's Sajewich had a workout.

The Vikings struck paydirt late in the second quarter. Their ground attack did most of the damage, as the Vikes moved the ball 50 yards with Senior Lenny Rinaldi scoring on a 3-yard quarterback keeper around left end.

Rinaldi also added a nice 27-yard scamper down the right sideline during the touchdown drive. The extra point attempt was blocked.

Vikes better than record according to NJ Herald

Everyone agrees the Vikings had a very disappointing season on the gridiron. And everyone agrees that the team was better than its record of 1-8 indicates. Extensive injuries meant the Vikings never had a chance to really show what they were capable of.

In the game against Lenape on September 29, Vernon trailed by 7-6 going into the fourth quarter. The Vikes had the ball on the move and hopes were high when a pass from Rinaldi was intercepted and Lenape scored a final touchdown to end the contest 14-6.

Coach Richard Wetzel and his staff of assistants admit they were disappointed but they have some compliments for the team. Wetzel said "the players had a very positive attitude before every game. They never lost hope and never tried to place blame."

Vernon sets new shutout record

Finishing the '84 season with a 12-3-2 record and a 2-1 record in Group 3, North Section I state playoffs, Vernon tied for third place with Sparta in a tough SCIL. After winning a 4-0 decision over Union Hills, Vernon went on to play Wayne Valley, winning 1-0 in a shootout. In reaching the semifinal round of state play, the Vikes were defeated by a quick Northern Highlands, 4-0.

Junior goalkeeper Kave Kilby and the rest of the Viking defense posted a 15 shutout season, matching the 1982 Viking booters. In a three year period Vernon has accumulated 43 shutouts in 54 games making a New Jersey shutout record.

Matt Vayo, Paul Lindner, Bob Roche, Dave Kilby and offensive attacker Kirk Peat with 28 goals and 8 assists were named to the all SCIL Team. Receiving honorable mention was Vito Scarola.

Post-season Action

One step away from posting titles, the soccer and cross-country teams enthusiastically entered post-season competition. The soccer team earned two victories before being shut-out in the semi-finals 4-0 by a quicker Northern Highlands team. The Viking booters defeated Union Hill (4-0) and Wayne Valley (1-0) in a shoot-out before being upended. The cross-country teams placed fourth in the sectionals and advanced to the Group III State Championships where the boys placed ninth and the girls placed sixteenth.

Home court advantage

With the addition of new tennis courts to the school grounds, the 1984 Girls' Tennis Team experienced a real home court for the first time. The courts were completed in October, replacing the use of the Americana for home matches.

Despite the advantage of new courts, the team struggled for victories. They faced some of the toughest competition in the state and posted a 5-8 record overall. Lori Kaplan, Gail Werner, and Kris Roome proved to be solid contenders at 1st, 2nd, and 3rd singles respectively, while Kim Hennessey, Jill Sammak, Jennifer Rineer and Liz Mydosh rounded out the Viking roster at doubles with their consistent and improving play.

After an opening day of rain, there was nothing but blue skies and warm breezes to greet the fans and cheerleaders when they appeared at the weekly Saturday football contests. By season's end everyone connected with cheerleading had noted that they had enjoyed the warmest fall on record. No one had to break out their mittens.

Wendy Marklin, a first year squad member for football, was asked why she had tried out for cheerleading. She replied that she "had watched from the stands and decided to accept the challenge." She, like all the other cheerleaders, really enjoy what they are doing. They are appreciated and just a random poll caught Matt Wiedbrauk and Roy Shaw wandering down the hall; when they were asked what they thought of cheerleaders, they responded, "They're great."

A new look for winter

New cheers, new footwear, new skirts marked the onset of the basketball season. The new skirts are blue with gold trim and have replaced the pleated skirts of last year. White sneakers are now worn instead of saddle shoes. The new cheers include the now favorite "Book and Skate." Some of the new ideas were brought from Hackensack by transfer student and cheerleader Michelle Adamo.

Because cheerleading is naturally done in the middle of the playing floor, the most critical task of the cheerleader is being alert for the buzzer that means time-out for the guys and time to perform for the girls.

Individuals highlight season

Wins marked both the opening and the closing of the season for the Viking grapplers. They recorded 2 wins, 11 losses, and 1 tie.

The team had some individually fine performances. Senior captain Rich Rosser finished his season with an 18-5-1 record posting 11 pins. Other standouts were freshman Brian Peragine and senior Scott Jurkouich both of whom broke even with 11-11 records. Rosser and Peragine placed second and fourth, respectively in the District 14 Wrestling championships held at Kittatinny High School on Saturday, February 23. Rosser went on to compete in the Regionals at Wallkill Valley High School in Hamburg.

The Vikings finished eighth overall in the tough district, placing above Vo-Tech, Pope John, and Hopatcong.

Runnin' Vikes play tough

Lacking size and experience, the varsity boys basketball team and new head coach Bill Edelman entered the '84-'85 season with two basic objectives. They planned to run with the ball and play tough man to man defense. The team started off fast and on a winning streak but the height and experience of their SCIL foes caught up with them, leaving the Vikes, on occasion, just short of victory.

Leading the Vikings were senior starters Mark Aug, Len Rinaldi, Kirk Peat, Dan Fitzpatrick and Matt Wiedbrauk. Backing up these five was a solid bench of juniors Steve Hadl, Bill Fitzpatrick, Dave Kilby and Allan Vitkosky and sophomore Dan Maier. The Vikings did not compile a winning record but their consistent hard work and never give-up attitude made each contest interesting.

Accuracy, rather than strength, is required

A third place finish in a competitive Sussex County Inter-scholastic League is nothing to be ashamed of, according to Viking bowlers. They worked out twice weekly in practice sessions at the Sparta Lanes where their meets were also held. The team worked hard to put those strikes and spares together when it counted most. Any loss of concentration could mean an open frame.

Sectional Champs Once Again

Sectional championships were claimed once again by both the boys and girls ski racing teams. For the girls that makes it three years in a row and, for the boys, two years in a row.

The season got off to a slow and late start with the warmest December on record and then came to an abrupt halt with temperatures in the seventies during the week of February 18th. Regardless of the problems, the girls had only one defeat to mark their 22-1 record, and the boys two defeats in their 12-2 record. Both teams attended the state league race on Thursday February 28 and came back with a 2nd place for the girls and a 6th place for the boys. Team members also attended the Eastern High School Championships at Hunter Mountain, New York.

Time and effort make swim team's first year a success

It was a first! A first in more ways than one. It was Vernon's first swim team and everyone was welcomed to the aquatic squad. The premier season also produced a first place finish in the boys medley at the SCIL tournament.

No special requirements were spelled out for a membership on the team. However, Coaches Moraczewski and Ricca did demand that each member contribute all his/her talent and energy in all practices and meets. The swimming was done at the Sussex County Vocational-Technical School in Sparta and, as a result, hours were long and erratic. Three practices and two meets were scheduled weekly.

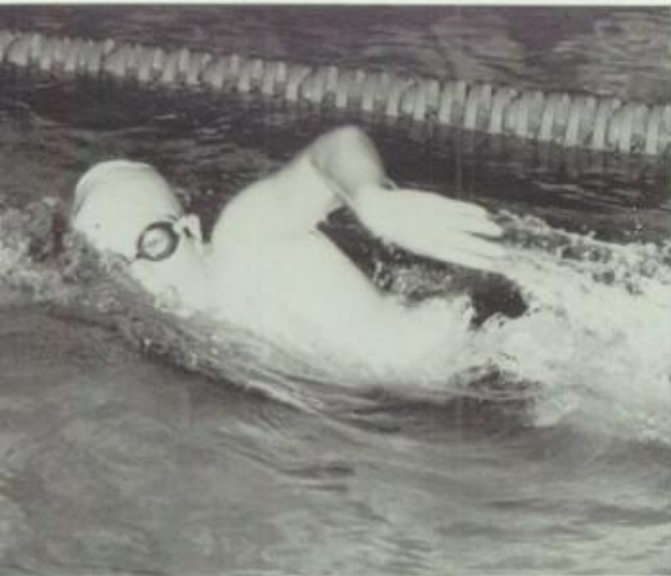

Coach Moraczewski said the swim team was created to answer a need among our students to swim competitively in more than the local summer leagues. The SCIL league is a tough one and Coach Ricca was very pleased with the way in which team members met the challenge.

Competitive spirit keeps team alive

The season opened with high expectations for the Vernon Girls' Basketball team. With four starters back from last year's squad, chances were good that the team would improve upon the '83-'84 record. Leading the team were senior co-captains Cheri McLeod and Gail Werner along with senior center Kelly Higgins and senior forward Carol Rag-netti. Injury and illness plagued the team and prevented the Vikings from playing at full strength for most of the season. Friends on and off the court, the Vikings played together with determination and pride. Most games were hard fought battles that weren't decided until the final seconds.

1000 Points

Gail Werner put her name in the record book on February 7, 1985. Gail was the first person in the history of Vernon High School to score 1000 points during her high school career. After being a starter for three years she entered her senior year needing only 289 points. She reached the plateau in the game against Pope John by scoring 28 points. Gail ended her career with a total of 1083 points scored. Congratulations Gail!!

Vernon gives a total team effort in their game against Lenape Valley. Vernon came within two points in the fourth quarter before losing 62-58.

Lookin' Good

With eight returning letter-winners, the Viking softball team took the diamond this spring fully equipped with plenty of experience. Coach Bob Trenz relied heavily on his six senior starters to carry the team both offensively and defensively. Early on in the season the team looked strong in the field supporting their two rookie pitchers Renee Boeren and Patti McGill and at the plate where they were successful in hitting all different speeds of pitching. The returnees include catcher Cathy Cowan, pitcher Renee Boeren, infielders Kelly Higgins, Cheri McLeod, Marianne Papay, Sherri Pearson, and outfielders Kelly Cohan and Gail Werner.

The unassuming Lady Vikings hoped to open some eyes in the S.C.I.L. this season both by upsetting top ranked teams and displaying their brand new uniforms.

Biggest turnout ever

With the biggest turnouts ever in Vernon's ten year history, the boys' and girls' track teams had both depth and strength. Underclassmen composed most of both teams. Returning from last year's SCIL championship boys' team were senior captain Matt Wiedbrauk (distance), junior Mike Mahoney (hurdles, high jump), senior Steve Gatzke (sprints), junior Ron Schneider (pole vault), and sophomore Mark Miranda (sprints). With their experience sophomore Lisa Parak (weights), senior Sue Parak (sprints, long jump), senior Ann Marie Knecht (distance), junior Noel Knecht (distance), and senior Kris Zydel (high jump) were expected to lead the girls' team. Two scrimmages versus West Milford on March 25 and Warwick on March 27 helped the team tune-up for their opening meet against Sparta which was scheduled for April 16.

Experience should count

Looking for its first winning season, Vernon's 1985 Golf Team had the experience to make it possible. Coach Benwell with his three seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and four freshmen have practiced at the par 35, 9-hole course at Farmstead Country Club.

Tennis Anyone?

Four returning players — Doug Sammak, Joe Way, Charles Furce, and Jim Reiser — welcome the opportunity to play on new home courts.

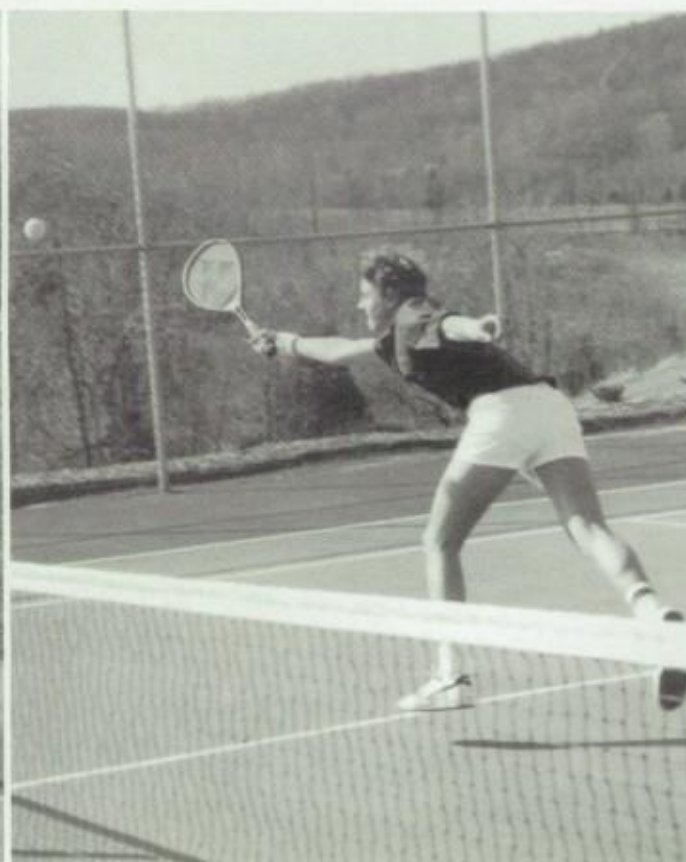

The team was led by sophomore Jim Reiser who made a big improvement over last year, according to Coach Gersie, and will play first singles. The rest of the squad is very even and should be competitive from top to bottom. Charles Furce and Paul Schwarz played second and third singles respectively. Seniors Doug Sammak and Daniel Cavestany were first doubles.

Veterans expected to provide leadership

With a nucleus of six returning lettermen the Viking team was expected to have a consistently strong performance.

Coach Mayer said that the major strengths of the team are defensive strategies and hustling ability. The team will be relying heavily on seniors Dean Schwartz, Tom Burns, Chris Kuhrt, Ken Mitchell and junior player Bill LaBance. Tom Burns is the leading pitcher on the mound, but when he's not occupying that space, Dean Schwartz and Ken Mitchell will pitch for the Vikes. Schwartz is also the veteran behind the plate.

Coach John Mayer is looking very optimistic about the Vernon Vikings 1985 baseball season despite the loss of six starters from last year's season.

Ranked nationally

WEIGHTLIFTING

The desire to get in shape has led increasingly greater numbers to the sport of weightlifting. Some people, however, do more than just get in condition. Senior Bob Holderith is one of those. He is presently a member of the Bellvale Barbarians Power Team and holds all of the team's records as well as the Quarry's records. Bob competed in the 132 lb. class and won the New Jersey Men's Drug-free State Championship. He is ranked 18th in the nation for the dead lift and is currently the New Jersey High School dead lift record holder.

Bob Holderith is pictured with his seven trophies. He holds three records on the Bellvale Barbarians Power team — bench, curls and dead lift.

Unarmed combat in which a person strikes with the hands, feet, elbows, and/or knees is called karate and is one of many Oriental forms of the martial arts. Karate is defined by the Japanese as empty (kara) hand (te).

Karate started as early as the fourth century B.C. by Buddhist monks in India. Since then four major types of karate have evolved, each stressing it's own specific skills. Chinese karate (kung fu) uses flowing, circular motions. Japanese karate emphasizes powerful blows. Korean karate (tae kwon do) stresses kicks and Okinawan is another powerful form. Most karate students wear uniforms called gi's.

Jim Schmick (right) has been in karate for eight years and is a first degree black belt or a sho-don. He presently instructs at the Vernon Valley Karate Academy. The form of karate taught there is Okinawan. The style is Goshin-Ryu which is a combination of hard and soft style karate.

Gary Leopold (left) has been in karate for a year and a half and is presently a purple belt at the same Academy. Purple belt is the second level of five.

Both Jim and Gary have entered and won trophies in competition that consists of fighting called sparring and forms called katas.

You don't have to live by the sea

You've seen it on TV and thought "Wow, that looks like fun. Maybe I'll try it, but I don't live near the ocean."

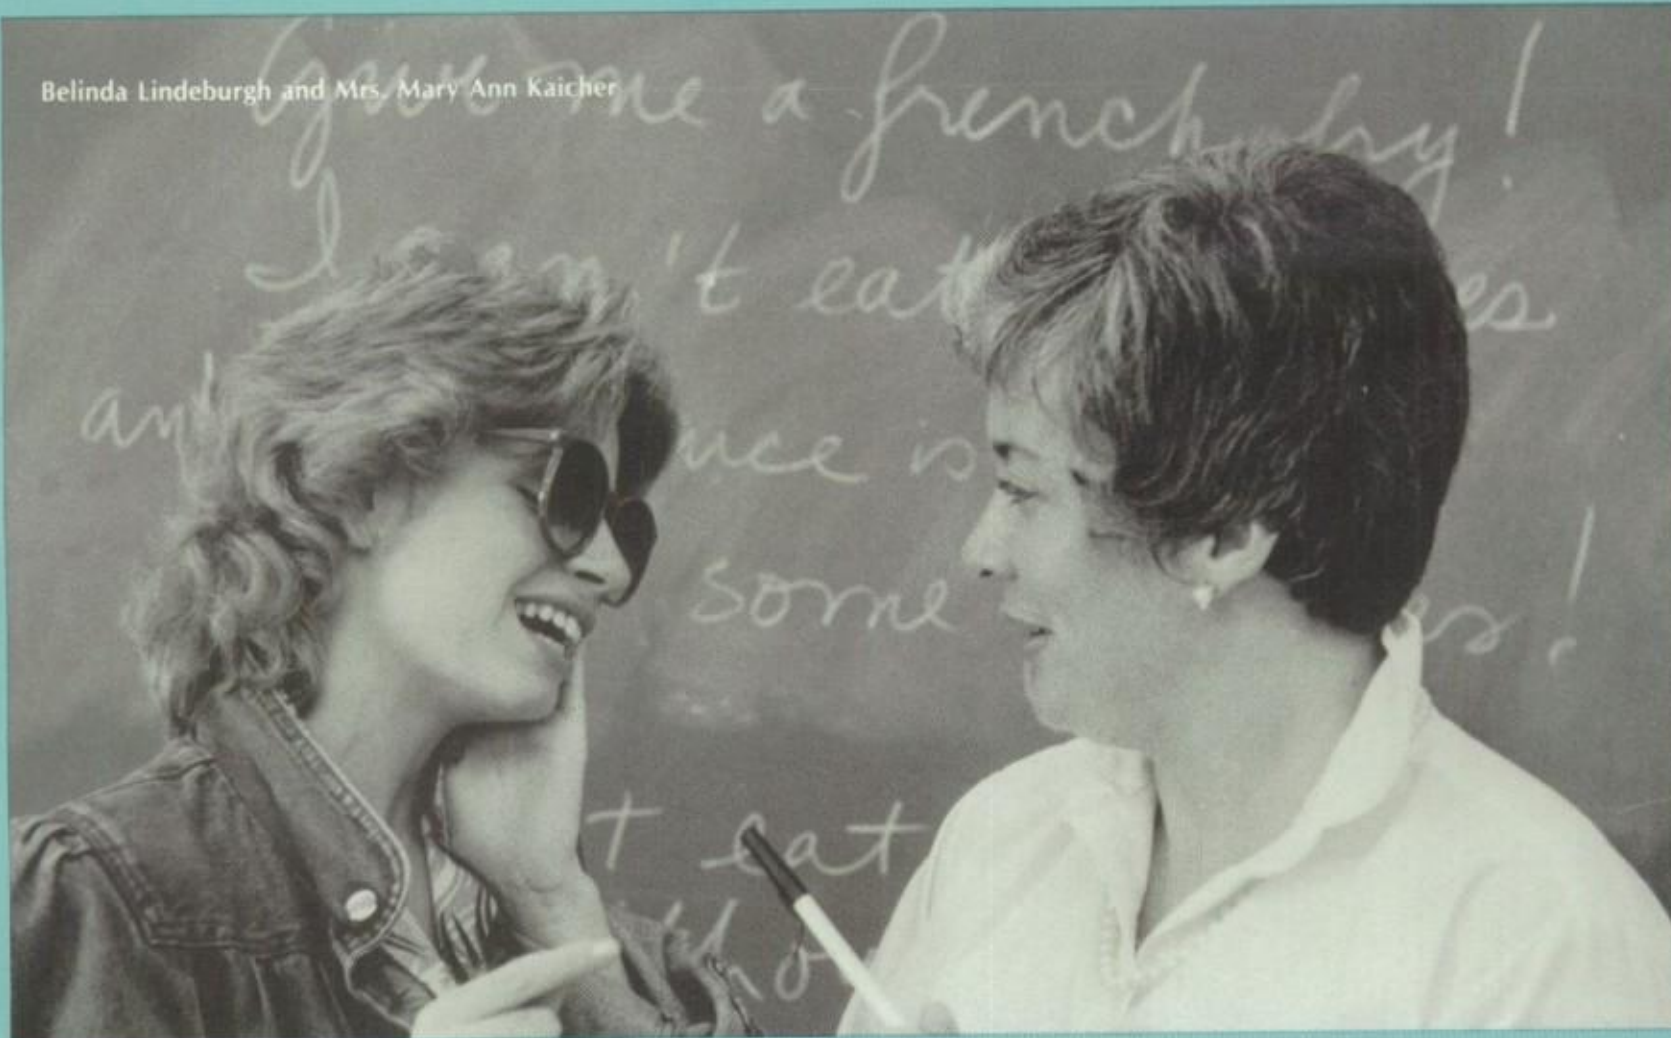

According to Dawn Sutton, Vito Scarola, and John Dippold you don't have to live by the sea, just near water. Windsurfing was first introduced to Vito and Dawn by Gary Kaplan, a 1984 Vernon graduate. Then Vito got John into the act. All three started windsurfing last summer at Highland Lakes and are really into it. They have not competed yet but Dawn is going to start racing in the summer of '85. John and Vito went to Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, to see a windsurfing competition.

Vernon Receives an "A" in Academics

Academic excellence is our goal, and during the past ten years it has been reached over and over again by the students of Vernon High.

Alumna, Maureen Miller ('77) has received a scholarship for her doctorate at Harvard University. Three of our students, Sean Killoy ('79), Ron Gemeinhardt ('82), and Jim Suruda ('85), made it to the semifinals for the National Merit Scholarship. Beth Jones ('84) was awarded the National Honor Society Scholarship; a very difficult scholarship to attain. In the State Teen Arts Festival, Jim Suruda was the first person to write an original computer program; it was said to be the first of its kind. In the area of art, Sue Kuenzler ('85) received an Honorable Mention in a national linoleum block print contest.

In the past ten years a number of foreign exchange students have come to Vernon and Vernon students have also gone abroad. Dorie Baker ('77) spent her junior year of high school as an exchange student in Australia. Ellen Henderson ('78) spent a year abroad in Venezuela. Also in her junior year, Joan Reiser ('79) went to Mexico. This past summer, Senior Eileen Peters lived in Spain.

Through these students and all our students, we each achieve our individual goals of excellence. Vernon is a special and unique place, one of which we can all be proud.

... and in addition

No, this is not a story about mathematics but, instead, is a story about the building referendum for Vernon schools. Because of the constantly increasing enrollment in the school system, the Board of Education proposed a twelve room addition to the high school and a brand new primary school. On December 18, 1984 a vote was cast, with a margin of forty-eight, for Vernon schools to once again expand.

Over the past ten years, school attendance has gone from approximately 2600 to 4200. Had the building referendum not been passed, the school system would have had to make plans for rented classroom space for kindergarten and certain primary school classes. The high school would have had to incorporate some type of alternate scheduling.

Hidden away in room 1

Who has had in-school suspension lately? Chances are Mrs. Bates knows. As secretary to the vice-principal, keeping records on students who have had any type of suspension is only one of her many responsibilities. Mrs. Bates (right) is the "silent partner," the so-called woman behind the scenes. Hers is the responsibility for the many jobs we take for granted. For instance, Mrs. Bates is in charge of ordering all the odds and ends that make Vernon's affairs special. Many of the official memos and letters are typed by Mrs. Bates, including teachers' notices, faculty evaluations, and Mr. Whidden's correspondence. Along with her other duties, Mrs. Bates also contributes her time to the SCA, takes charge of collecting and keeping records of the money for the spring production and orders graduation caps and gowns.

Musicians master basics through study of classics and jazz

Bach, Chopin, Mozart, and Beethoven are but a few of the composers studies in Music Theory I. This course covers the basic areas in music such as scales and chord structure. If successful in Theory I, students can further their education in music by advancing to Music Theory II where jazz is studied.

Some theory students go on to college to major in music while others take the course just for their love of music. Eventually, within the scope of the class, students are expected to compose their own music — usually choral or piano.

Aspiring writers meet

Students who showed an interest and potential in the field of playwriting attended a special workshop conducted by Rose Mary McLaughlin on Tuesday, December 4 and Tuesday, December 11. Ms. McLaughlin instructed the students on the importance of structure in writing a play.

Each writer devised an individual plot which was acted out by other members of the class. This role-playing supplied the writer with additional ideas on expanding his plot. Using these ideas, each writer was to prepare a ten page script for the second session schedules for the following week. Again, students acted out the plays this time with scripts and improvements were discussed at the end of the workshop.

Incredible Edibles

Looks good enough to eat . . . and it is

Look like a picture from Hansel and Gretel or a child's Christmas fantasy? It might just be. Actually it's a creation of Mrs. Martin's mods 14-15 International Foods class. The gingerbread recipe includes flour, baking soda, nutmeg, salt, sugar, ginger, shortening, and molasses. The dough was mixed, rolled out, and then cut into rectangles to make the sides and roof of each house. The gingerbread houses were given the final touch with candies and decorators icing used by the custodians in moving various large items around the school grounds. The four foot wide, eight foot long trailer will be pulled by a tractor. The students put approximately twenty hours of work into the project which came to a total cost of $125 for materials.

Greg Acker, Kuhrt Driemel, Chris Bates, and Mark Morosoff are shown with the trailer that produced feelings of pride in contributing to the school and pride in a job well done.

Computers are becoming more available and more popular day by day. Everyone appears to be jumping on the band wagon and the experts on computers claim the demand for operators and technicians will continue to grow. To be right there in the mainstream and ready for a high tech future, Mr. Richard Poplaski, Mr. Barrie Beaver, and Mr. William Franklin teach marketable computer skills to Vernon students.

Computer Math I is designed to develop a student's skill in writing computer programs using the "Basic" programming language. Computer Math II continues to build upon the programming techniques presented in Computer Math I. Language students travel abroad

A little culture, a little education, a little excitement, and a lot of fun was part of the itinerary for the foreign language students who traveled to Europe this spring.

Thirty-five students flew to Germany with Frau Bell. They visited Berlin and East Germany. They saw as many of Germany's tourist spots as they could, including the famous Hofbrauhaus in Munich.

The French group traveled by way of London, England, en route to Paris, France. They saw Big Ben and the Eiffel Tower along with many other landmarks. More than fifty people accompanied Madame Gimigliano.

Both Senora Gomez and Senor Galati supervised the thirty-five Spanish students while they visited Spain and Portugal. While they were there they visited Madrid and the country sides of both countries.

Spanish students were exposed to Spanish culture and literature through the medium of film while they watched Don Quixote.

Sophomore Paul Antola and freshman Beth Miller attended a lecture about the German lifestyle presented by a guest speaker provided by Upsala College.

Micro-computers come to business department

Through state vocational funding, Mrs. Linda Haring-Robinson and Ms. Susan Matthews received a grant for three micro-computers to be used by the business department. Since computers are so widely used in the business world, the skills needed to operate the equipment will be incorporated in a new course called Business Applications for Computers. Ten additional computers will be required for this course.

Red White and Blue

Buttons, banners, ribbons — all in red, white, and blue — marked the 1984 presidential elections across the U.S. and in Vernon hallways. The history department sponsored a mock election with parallels to the real thing.

Republican candidates — Mark Miller, President, and Mark Laccetti, Vice-President — squared off against democratic opponents — John Buonomo, President, and Cheryl Orgonik, Vice-President — in speeches and in a press conference. The moderator during "Meet the Press" was Vince Ditta and the reporters were Allison Reese and Rae Lyn Sullivan. The members of the history departments served as advisors to the candidates but they had their own campaign managers. Mark Miller admitted that he enjoyed the experience but was a little worried after he saw the tape of "Meet the Press".

But no need to worry! The mock election was held on Friday, November 2, 1984. All students and staff were eligible to vote during lunch mods in the cafeteria and the result in Vernon High was a landslide victory for the Reagan-Bush slate with the vote running 2.5 to 1. Bill Bradley won over Mary Mochary for the senate seat and Marge Roukema was victorious over Rose Brunetto for the congress.

A body to last a lifetime

Every Tuesday and Thursday the ropes are lowered, the mats are unfolded, the weights are carried out, and the 60-second rest station becomes the reward for those students participating in "circus" training. A new station added on the girls' side is the hula hoop, a fun way to help tone the waist line.

The hard work pays off in the end because the students are tested to see who is best at each particular skill station. The benefit of this physical conditioning is the satisfaction of knowing that your body is at it's best and it just might "last you a lifetime."

White on White inspired senior art students

Strip poker of a different kind is represented visually in the artistic creation of seniors Dawn Sutton, Chris Ruffo, Dave Gorham, and Mark Milan. The pariscraft sculpture was designed in response to a class assignment to portray a white object on a white background. The inspiration came from the work of professional artist George Segal.

The pariscraft, a gauze-like material in three inch wide rolls, is dipped in water and wrapped around the model. The plaster dries and hardens. After three to four hours the cast must be cut away from the model and then re-assembled. The time seems endless to the person inside the cast.

The three figures in the finished sculpture grouping are playing strip poker. Not playing for clothes, they are playing for body parts. In the words of the artists, they are "playing for life."

Wide selection offered

Vernon's annual College Fair had another successful outcome. On the night of November 1, approximately 110 schools of further education attended the high school in lure of possible applicants. The schools offered a broad field of study. They ranged from nursing to cosmetology, aviation schools to technical schools, secretarial and business schools to junior, community, two/four year colleges and universities. The Fair also featured the armed forces and financial planning workshops. According to the figures of the Director of Guidance, Mr. James Guthrie, there was a show of about 600 junior and senior students from 18 different high schools. In addition, mini-college fairs are held during the day in the school library several times a year.

Jackets given in appreciation

New Year's resolutions are made and broken but one resolution proposed by the Student Council was indeed kept. The month of January, 1985, was designated as Custodian Appreciation Month. The student council, on behalf of the entire student body, presented the custodians with staff jackets. Also, during the month of January, a special showcase was installed to honor the staff. Each custodian plays a major part in maintaining the high school's enviable appearance and all deserved the recognition and appreciation that was shown them.

VTHS gives students a feast to remember

A festive feast, organized by Ms. Nancy Gulden, of the cafeteria staff, was held for the students of Vernon Township High School on December 20, 1984.

The menu for this X-mas buffet included:

- Assorted Cold Cuts & Cheese Platters
- Italian Meatballs in Tomato Sauce
- Breaded Chicken Drumsticks
- Creamy Macaroni Salad
- Homemade Potato Salad
- Crispy Cole Slaw
- Dinner Roll and Butter
- Relish Tray
- Choice of Milk

And all for just 95 cents. For a finale, everyone got to create their own ice cream sundae.

For the past ten years, the students at Vernon Township High School have had an awesome sense of pride in their school, in themselves, and in their tastes — especially the underclassmen. In an attempt to experience this sense of pride a survey was conducted to define these students known as underclassmen, of their favorite pastimes and preferences.

The results indicated that the freshmen like to study English while listening to Bruce Springsteen. They also like to go to McDonalds after soccer games and eat chocolate ice cream while watching their favorite TV show Three's Company. Another favorite with freshmen is eating Hershey bars while watching Fast Times at Ridgemont High; afterwards, they like to stop for Pizza. The freshmen enjoy reading the family circus and listening to the Police on Z-100. Their favorite color is red.

The Sophomores prefer to study Math while listening to Bruce Springsteen on WPLJ. They go to Burger King after seeing their favorite movie, Flashdance, where they munched out on M&M's. They enjoy eating pizza while watching The Facts of Life on TV. Other favorite pastimes are listening to the Police and playing football. They are avid fans of Snoopy, love chocolate icecream, and have a strong preference to the color red.

Moving up the ladder to the older and wiser juniors, the survey indicated that some things don't change. Members of the class of 1986 also voted for Bruce, pizza, chocolate icecream, Burger King, football, and Snoopy. But some things do change. Jr's have a preference for the A-Team, Ghostbusters and the color blue.

This helps us all to realize some of the things that the generation of students in this dynamite decade at Vernon High School are proud of.

Overcoming Obstacles

Declared legally blind at birth, Brian Schnabel receives no special treatment from teachers or classmates and asks for none. He is proud of working on his own.

Brian takes all normal classes including wood shop and band. The only concession made to his blindness in band is enlarged music and Brian plays much of his music from memory. In wood shop, Brian is assisted by senior Gary Leopold. Gary says that Brian tries as hard as the other students and does better than most. He is willing to try almost anything and doesn't get easily discouraged.

Brian earns average grades and uses a special television screen in order to enlarge the words in his books. The only problem he encounters are reading the chalkboard and avoiding the glare on shiny magazine pages.

In order for Brian to have been declared legally blind, his corrected vision had to be under 20/200. In addition to not being able to see more than 20 feet in front of him, Brian has trouble distinguishing red from green. His night vision is so poor that he uses a cane after dark. Being declared legally blind has no effect on Brian's attitude.

Top salespeople earn big prizes

A dynamite assembly launched the annual magazine drive for the freshmen class on November 5. Frosh left the assembly enthusiastic about selling magazines and records and about the prizes they would earn.

Every morning the class officers went from homeroom to homeroom to collect the money which totaled more than $1,000.

Prizes were awarded to Danny Forrester, Karen Batchelor, and Eugene Aragdna — the three top sales people in the campaign. The two boys received a pair of speakers and Karen a telephone. Other prizes were stuffed animals, records or tapes, and candy. The biggest sellers were Better Homes and Gardens magazine and the album "John Denver and the Muppets' Christmas."

Proud of first banner

Two weeks of concentrated effort went into the creation of the freshmen banner, an artistic masterpiece. Once the design was drawn and parts cut out of felt, the pieces had to be glued together. Lisa Garrett (left) and Amy Bogdon (right) were responsible for that phase of the project. Then Lisa took the banner home to sew on the Viking head and Amy did the same to sew the letters. The class of 1988 and its adviser Ms. Jean Bailly are justifiably proud of the results of their first banner committee.

Popular tunes had everyone dancing

School dances may have been upstaged by the Hayloft's teen nights. The majority of dance-goers seem to have moved from Vernon's cafeteria to a more night club atmosphere.

On December 7, the freshmen sponsored their first high school dance to the music of junior Bruno Ferretti and his band. When Bruno wasn't playing he was spinning records in his role as DJ. The wide variety of music had everyone out on the floor.

Freshmen who arrived early to help set up, sell refreshments, and sell tickets were Danny Forrester, Lisa Garrett, Amy Bogdon, Lauren Adams, Kathy Schotter, Vicki Scovell, Brooke Gomm, and Dave Jones. Adviser Ms. Jean Bailly reported that a profit of approximately two hundred dollars was made on the event.

Right: Committee members Lauren Luchesi, Danny Forrester and Darlene Hrabal move the trellises to make room for the dancing.

An Art Filled Summer

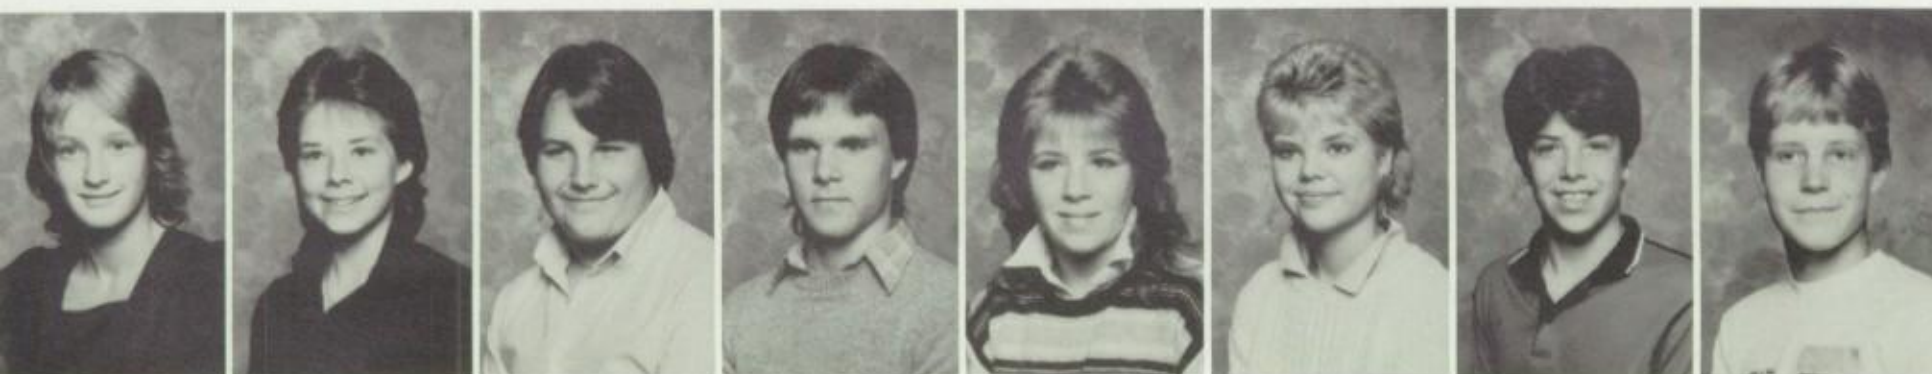

The judges of the Sussex County Teen Arts Festival recommended that Bill Bonter, a current sophomore at Vernon, attend the Summer Art Institute to study visual art.

The Summer Art Institute is a five week residential community of artists and serious high school students who have demonstrated potential talent in the arts. The Institute is planned in cooperation with the Mason Gross School of the Arts, Rutgers University.

During his stay at the Institute, Bill studies many different kinds of art media ranging from pencil sketching to oil painting. Bill's goals in the art field are uncertain for now, but he is still developing his promising talent in Commercial Art class and Introduction to Print-making.

Sophomores building treasury

The last chance for a class to build its treasury before being hit with proms, trips, dinners, and graduation is its sophomore year. The class of 1987 planned to make the most of its opportunity.

The money making plans began with a class dance on October 26. Tickets were sold for $2.00 each and the balance sheet showed a profit of about seven hundred dollars.

The next plan of action was to cash in on the general popularity of unicorns. These fanciful creatures adorned the sides of memo cubes that held multi-colored note paper. All indications were that the class would reach their goals of a thousand dollar profit from this sale. Tony Messina (right) unpacked the cubes.

A class by itself

During summer vacation, the four sophomore class officers met to plan the banner for the class of 1987. Gretchen Weigeshoff, Rose Scarola, Janice Woods, and Janet DenBleyker wanted to develop a design that would illustrate the fact that sophomores are active and have many different interests.

Mrs. Clancy, the sophomore advisor, said that this was a new experience for her and she enjoyed it. She helped the students select the material and occasionally offered suggestions.

Congratulations are in order for the sophomores who are "in a class by themselves" and were truly original in creating their banner. They finished second in the spirit week competition.

Just loafing around . . .

Have a few seconds to spare? Not in a rush to get to your next class? Looking for an excuse to be late?

If your answer to any one of these questions is yes, then there's a chance that you spend a good deal of time "just loafing around!"

Whether it be socializing in the hall, cleaning out your locker, reading magazines in the library, or talking on the phone, Vernon students always seem to find a way to have fun with their time.

But if you are late to class without providing a legitimate excuse you are sent to the attendance office for an admit slip. Our handbook says, "the tardy will be recorded and detentions will be assigned accordingly. Three lates will be considered one 'cut', the fourth late will be handled the same as a second 'cut'; the fifth late will result in the student being removed from the course following the same procedure as a third 'cut.' "

Violators beware!!!!

Sophomore dance a financial success

More than five hundred students attended the very successful sophomore class dance on October 26. The dance committee, consisting of Kim Hennessy (chairperson), Gretchen Weigeshoff, Janice Woods, Rose Scarola, Janet DenBlyker, Michele Chiaramonte, and Andrea Quintiera, was quite pleased with the profit of over a thousand dollars. Considering the success of their first dance venture of the year, the class planned a second with a San Juan theme.

The class officers and class council tossed several ideas around for future activities and services. High on the preference list were a swim party and collecting books for the county jail.

Tina

All-around Junior

Appreciated by her classmates for extra efforts beyond the call of duty, Tiny Laccetti is recognized as a "super" junior. Tina is proud of the class of '86 and expressed her pride in many ways. During spirit week she contributed by using her spare time to create original decorations and signs. She personalized each junior's locker with his or her name and/or sport. Tina was also fund raising chairwomen for the wrapping paper sale. Tina is active in the school band. She is the school's first and only baton twirler. Tina has been twirling for eleven years and still takes lessons to improve her skills. Her interest in twirling all started when she was five and saw a performance on television.

Another honor for Tina has been her nomination for the Governor's School in the Visual Arts.

All Wrapped Up

Christmas 1984 was all wrapped up the class of 1986. If you had a present, they had the wrap.

Packages of eighteen sheets of five different designs of gift wrap paper were sold by juniors at a price of three dollars and fifty cents. The class treasury benefited about four hundred dollars from this holiday fund raiser.

Earlier in the year, the junior class had a flea market in the school parking lot. Organized the previous June, September 8 proved profitable in the amount of three hundred and fifty dollars. Sale items were collected and cleaned by Doreen Pressimone, Carol and Lori Spring, Sue Hunter and other members of the class.

One step at a time

Determined they are, there is no doubt. The class of 1986 has been known as the generation with determination since their freshmen year. A visualization of this idea was created for the junior banner by Doreen Pressimone and Brandon Wagner.

The steps along the way in both high school and life were painted on felt to give a three-dimensional effect. Glitter liquid embroidery was used for the shooting stars. The computer letters were used to accent future goals and acknowledge that the years ahead will include advanced technology.

Brandon and Doreen put their ideas together and said that it took two weeks to complete the banner. The effort obviously paid off when the junior class laid claim to the first place trophy for spirit week.

Community service important to juniors

D.J. Jimmy Hill, a popular figure at Vernon school dances, kept everyone moving to current tunes on November 16, when the class of '86 played host. About twenty juniors arrived early to decorate and prepare for the dance. Although the main purpose was fun, the dance also provided a small but welcome profit.

In the tradition of commitment to community service that they established as freshmen, the juniors donated toys left from their September flea market to the children's ward at Wallkill Valley Hospital. During December another community service added to their list was collecting and donating old eyeglasses to the "Eyes for the Needy" program.

Noel Knecht and Chris Richter joined with Chris Gomm and Wallkill Valley's Laura Brunnett at the junior class dance November 16.

Standing Ovation for Activities

Proud we are of a diverse activities program that meets the varied needs of our student body. The program provides a release from academic pressures and an opportunity for achieving personal as well as group goals.

The school publications have consistently improved their quality and have been successfully evaluated by national press associations.

Student government has been active in the New Jersey State Council and has placed four Vernon students in state offices. The council has also won the Honor School Award and the Standard of Excellence Award.

FBLA and DECA chapters have had students place in regional and state competitions. Band and chorus members have performed in county, state, and regional groups over the years. Four chorus students received the high honor of being selected for All-Eastern chorus. Superior ratings in ACDA festivals are commonplace and the Chamber choir has twice been selected for State Teen Arts Assembly Program tour circuit. Both band and chorus have performed in Washington, D.C.

Professionalism is the hallmark of Vernon's drama program. From serious drama to the light fantastic, only high quality crosses center stage in the theater program.

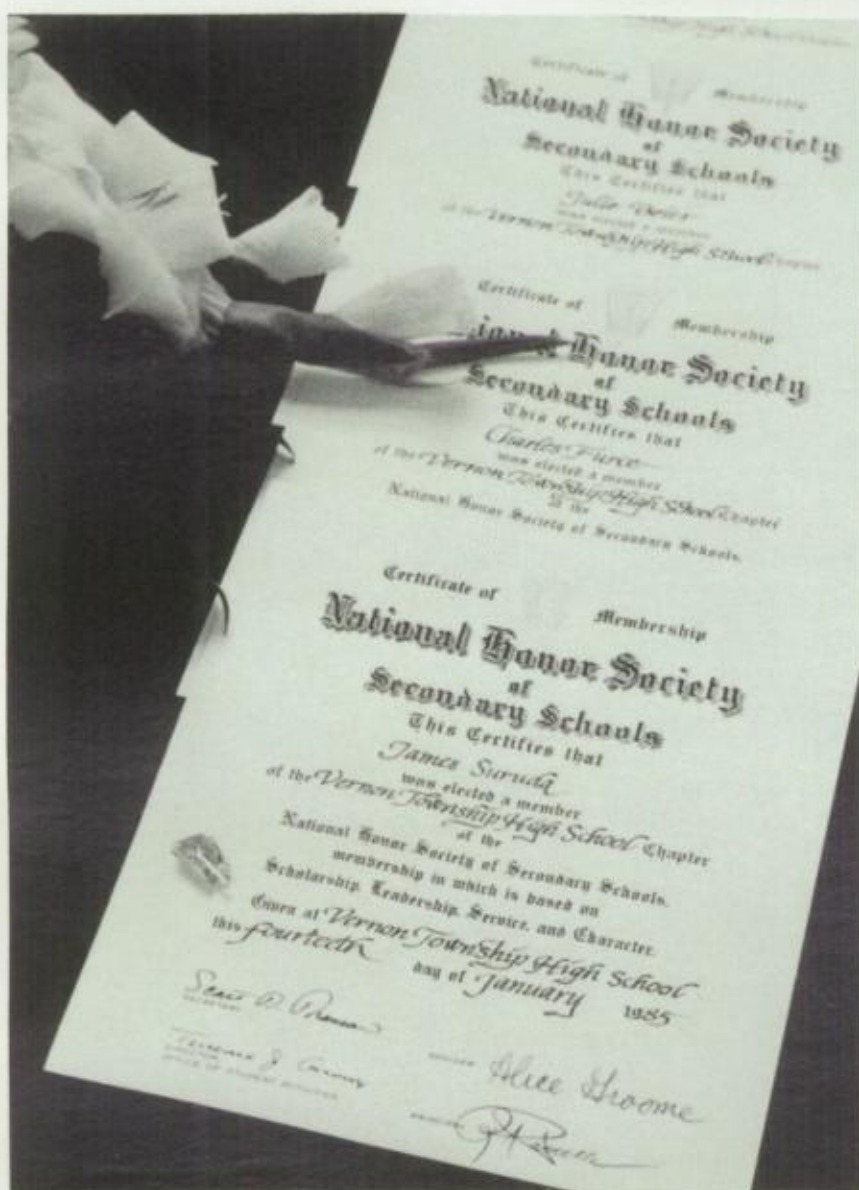

Vernon's extra-curricular program gets a standing ovation.

Ceremony for Scholars

Candles flickered in the dark auditorium as forty-six students clad in blue choir robes filed off the stage and down the aisles past proud parents and administrators. Twenty-five of the students had just been inducted into the Vernon Chapter of the National Honor Society; the rest were second year members.

During the ceremony, speeches on leadership, scholarship, service, and character were given by seniors Sherri Pearson, April Macherone, Wendy Marklin and Vito Scarola. Matt Wiedbrauk led the pledge of allegiance, Stella Crispo and Debra Drew the National Anthem, and Jim DeStaso recited the NHS Pledge.

The ceremony was followed by a cake and punch reception in the cafeteria.

"I laughed until I cried,"

said junior Roni Malvano at the Donkey Basketball game on December 12,

A unique experience for students and teachers was in store for anyone who was brave enough to ride a donkey. Bumps and bruises were the reward for their efforts along with a final score of 8-6 in favor of the old folks.

The game was sponsored by DECA and FBLA and was a financial success in funding a New York trip. Members visited a top accounting firm, NBC studios, and the Parsons School of Design. They saw 42nd Street at the Majestic Theater and closed the day at Mama Leone's.

The crowd reaction to Mr. Charles McKay (below) with the most difficult donkey of all was not to wait seven more years for the next donkey basketball game.

Caroline Espvik (left) and Susan Beaver were the official Pooper Scoopers but Caroline said "It was disappointing because there was no poop to scoop."

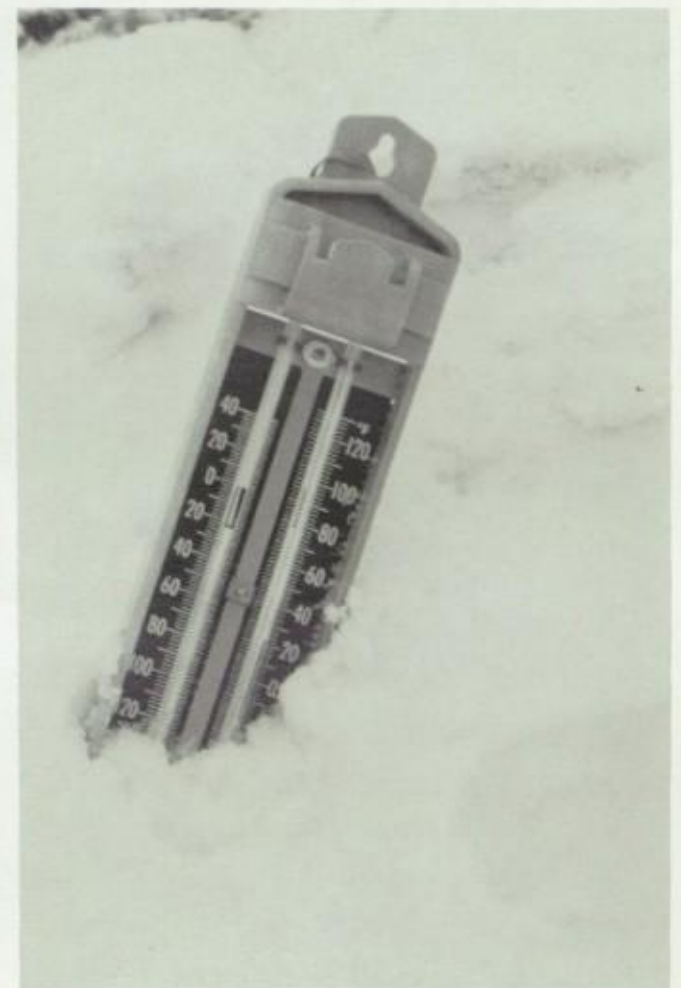

Travelling all over the United States can be a rough life for a donkey. These donkeys (above), however, look ready to give their riders the ride of lifetime.

Weather extremes wreak havoc on ski club schedule

The warmest December on record delayed the beginning of the skiing season. This warm weather turned into bitter cold days in mid-January with a record breaking low on the twenty-first of the month, causing a cancellation for fear of severe frostbite.

Ski Club was scheduled for six Mondays with two make-up days. Students skied at Vernon Valley from 3:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. under the supervision of Mrs. Paula Pyrcz and Mr. Terry Cassidy.

Goal set for more and better issues

At least forty-five minutes of every school day are spent putting together issues of the Viking Voice, the school newspaper. The addition of a mod 14-15 journalism class, new this year, has made the publication a feasible, if monumental, task.

Under the direction of Ms. Szalavitz and Ms. Donna Spector, twenty-eight students compile information, write stories, layout pages, take pictures, and sell ads in an effort to generate as many issues of the Viking Voice as possible throughout the school year.

The addition of light box, hot waxer, headline machine and the continued use of the word processor has made it possible to create a more professional look.

Review reaches new heights

A first place award in the American Scholastic Press Association competition was earned by the 1984 Back Porch Review. Ms. Terri Mattil hopes "that the 1985 Back Porch Review will surpass last year's edition in quality and popularity."

This hope is highly possible because the staff is enrolled in the new English course, Literary Journal Production. The course meets during mods 5-6 and is taught by Ms. Donna Spector and Ms. Mattil, the magazine's advisers. Class time is spent on writing exercises and on choosing materials for the publication.

According to the A.S.P.A. critique, The Back Porch Review "aspires to heights beyond the ordinary high school."

Get involved

Part of council goal

Striving to make the entire student body prouder than ever of its school and community, the Viking Student Council made the effort to get people involved. Keith Tavares, council president, said one of our goals this year was "to make a stronger bond between the council and the administration in the hopes of getting things accomplished." With this goal in mind, council member Suzanne Schwarz was appointed representative to the Board of Education. The first audible result of this new connection was the music (Z100) played during lunch mods in the cafeteria; the station was selected by student vote.

Our council has been aware of the importance of action against drinking and driving. A committee for DWI (Driving While Intoxicated) for formed. The first meeting was held on January 23 at VTHS with Kittatinny, Hopatcong, and Sussex Vo-Tech in attendance to discuss what could be done to diminish the problem.

Extending its outreach to include the community, the council formed a Community Service Committee which began its work by raising funds for Mike Gerber by sponsoring the Snowball Dance on January 25 and the Coffee House on February 8.

Strength, stamina, and ambition needed for musical success

It may be surprising to some that a choir member must possess the same qualities as an athlete. The singers must have strength in the form of breath support, stamina to last through long rehearsals and numerous performances, and the ambition to be the very best at what they do.

The VTHS Choir and Chamber Choir (formerly the chorale), make up a professional singing body that has been recognized in the State Teen Arts Festival and ACDA (American Choral Directors Association) competitions.

This past year, two very special honors were bestowed on the choir. Seniors Stella Crispo and Dan Scovell and juniors Sue Beaver and Chris Colyer were selected to perform with the All-Eastern Chorus. Also, Mr. Richard Zweier, choir director, was chosen to conduct the 1984 New Jersey All-State Chorus in Atlantic City at the November Convention.

The last football game of the season on November 10 marked the last performance of the marching units of the Viking Band until the Memorial Day Parade. The musicians turned their attention to preparations for their Holiday Concert on December 17 and the Annual Spring Concert on May 11.

The sixty-three member band is looking to continue expanding its repertoire, expertise, and size. The growth pattern in membership is obvious when you study the break-down by class. There are eight seniors, four juniors, eighteen sophomores, and thirty-four freshmen on the current roster.

The one fund raiser sponsored by the band was a Fish and Chips dinner on November 10. Tickets were sold for $5.50 per adult and $5.00 for students and senior citizens. The food was prepared by the well-known Argyle Restaurant of Kearny and was served by the band members to over two hundred fifty customers. The dinner has become a welcome annual event.

The 1984-85 Viking Band was well represented with eleven members playing in the All Sussex County High School Band and two members in the North Jersey Area Band.

We've come a long way . . .

in the decade since the high school opened; ten years has marked changes for the Viking marching units. A new band director in 1982, and new uniforms in 1983 added to the new image. The marching units are still composed of the band and the colorguard but the drill team has been removed and a baton twirler added. The units have continued to travel with trips to Washington and Wildwood in 1984.

The pre-game and halftime show routines were done to the songs "Say, Say, Say," "El Torro," "Late in the Evening," and "Sabbath Prayer Bottle Dance." The marching units also performed in the Memorial Day Parade in Vernon.

The colorguard consists of the American Team (captained by Sarah Peel), the flags (captained by Nancy Begala and Lori Devosa), and baton twirler Tina Lacetti.

Brandon Wagner, junior volunteer and member of spirit committee

The non-silent minority speaks out

Volunteers numbering more than fifty, at one time or another, helped to build more school spirit under the direction of student council chairperson, Susan Beaver. Throughout the fall months members of the spirit committee met in the school cafeteria on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school to create signs with tempera paint and paper. The posters and banners were then hung in the school hallways to inspire all athletic teams to even greater achievements. Lockers were decorated and hundreds of individual letters were sent to all team members wishing them the best of luck in their seasons.

Based on the diary of a young Jewish girl hiding from the Nazis during WW II, the Diary of Anne Frank demanded a lot from both the actors and the audience. Background research had to be done and German accents had to be acquired. Ms. Simpkins, Ms. Szalavitz, and Ms. Bell gave actors information on the history of the people, insight to their religion, and a feeling for the culture.

Appearing in the play on November 30 and December 1, were Larry Amato and Suzy Schwartz as Mr. and Mrs. Frank, Jelena Alonso and April Macherone as their daughters Margot and Anne, Victor Peel and Carla Jefferson as Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan, Rich McFarlane as their son Peter, George Schmidt as the dentist Mr. Dussell, and Carol Ann Boyko and Eddie Coppers as Dutch sympathizers Miep and Mr. Krahler.

The production was under the direction of Mr. Jim Walsh and assistants Caryn Sullivan and Katie O'Keefe. Props were handled by Lisa Opfer and Kim Neff, while sound was done by Alison Reese and Renee Stewart. Jennifer Nathan was in charge of publicity. Mr. John Bryan's tech crew handled all lighting and set construction.

Delovely!

A light-hearted musical comedy entitled Anything Goes takes place on a cruiseship sailing from New York to London in 1933. The passengers include an ex-evangelist turned night club singer, socialites, an English aristocrat, gangsters, and Wall Street financiers. The story is a mass of intertwined love plots, mistaken identities, and upbeat music by Cole Porter. The script was written by Guy Bolton and P.G. Wodehouse and performed by the mainstage players on March 22, 23, 29, and 30.

Under the direction of Mr. Jay Schweitzer, Mr. Jim Walsh, Ms. Donna Spector, and Mr. Richard Zweier, the cast and crew worked to revive the spirit of the high seas fifty-one years after the play's debut. An extravagant set designed by Mr. Walsh along with the special effects created by Mr. Walsh and Mr. John Bryan set the mood. Costumes were supervised by Ms. Nora Szalavitz, and Jennifer Nathan. Stage managers were Jen Koestler and Caryn Sullivan. It was "delovely!"

Activities simulate experiences in business world

An ever-expanding program in distributive education offers many opportunities such as cooperative work, competitions, and conferences. This year the DECA club went to Lancaster, Pennsylvania and participated at the North Atlantic Regional Conference (NARCON) where they met people from the business world.

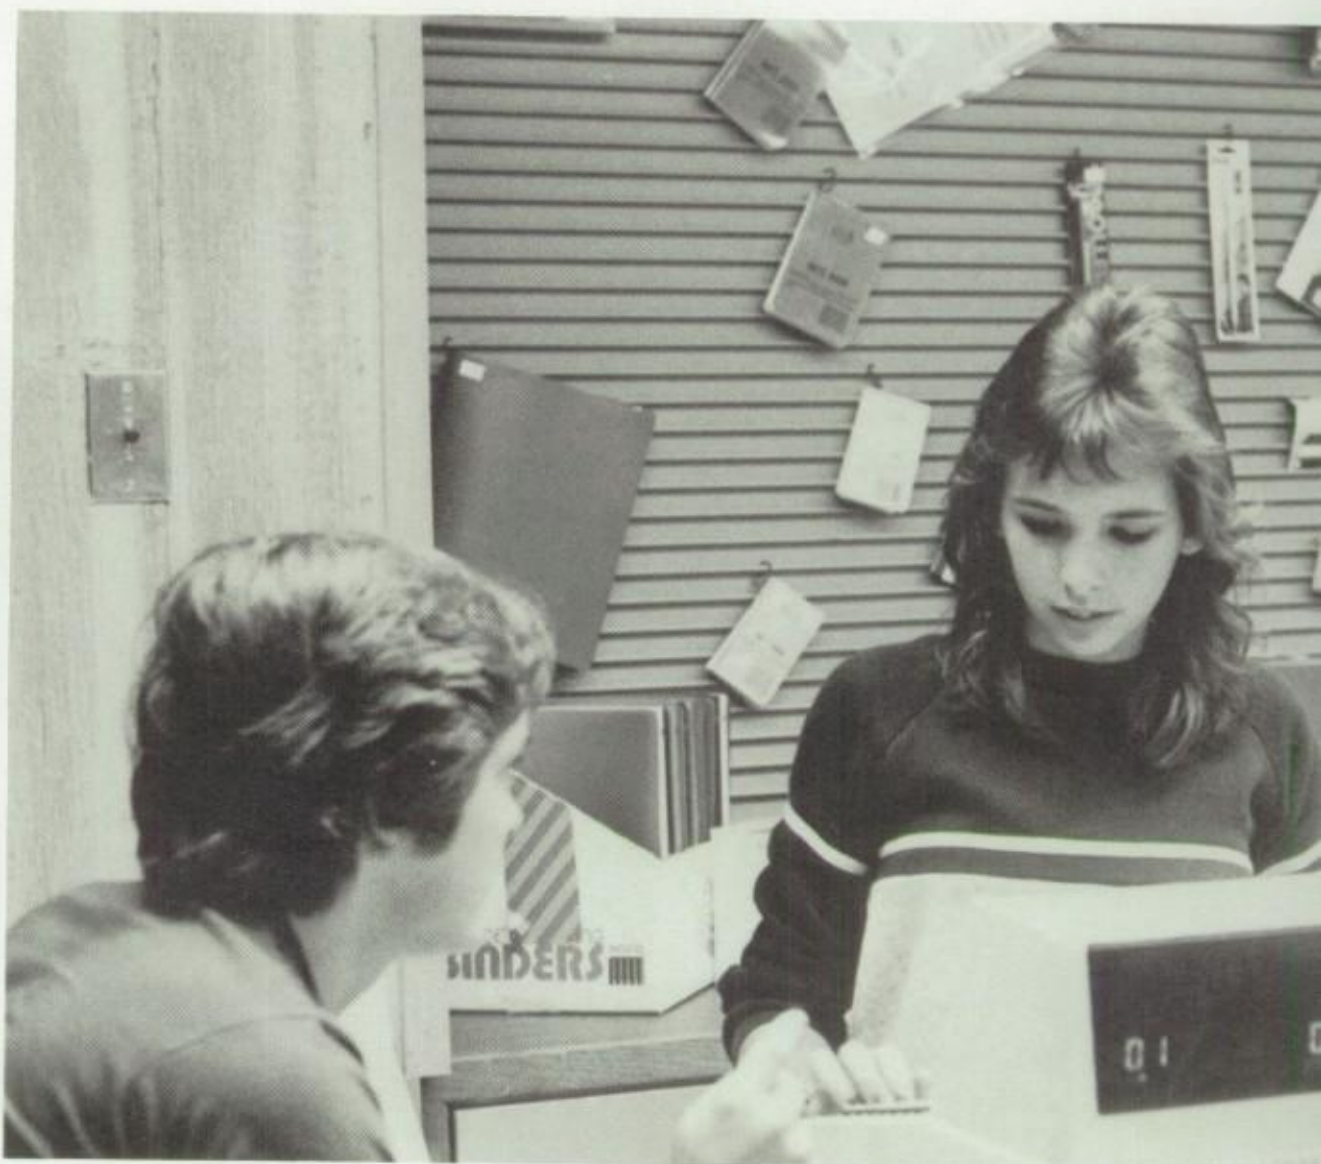

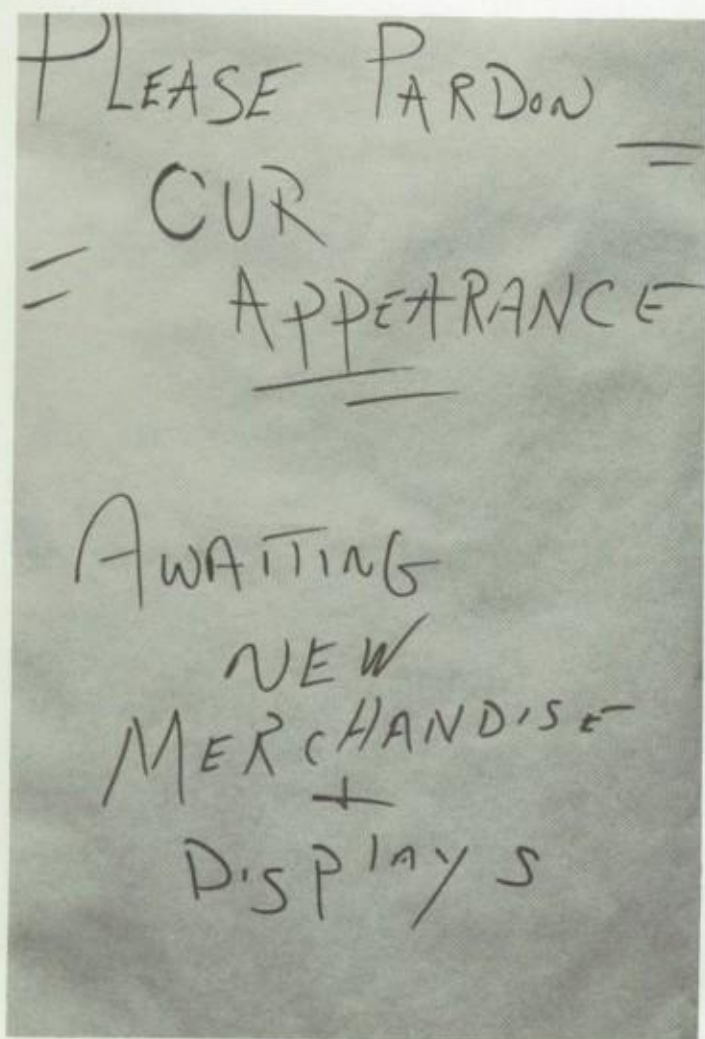

Other activities that DECA sponsored were the annual fashion show held at the high school in the spring, a volleyball game with Vernon competing against Jefferson, Parsippany, Pequannock, a breakfast at which activity plans for the year were discussed, and a donkey basketball game.

The FBLA club also deals with business, tying in what is learned at school with the outside world of work. Club members try to provide community service as well. FBLA sponsored a fund raiser by selling Current stationary. Club members held an annual type-a-thon on November 27 raising money from sponsors for the benefit of the Leukemia Society of America; total donated was seven hundred dollars. A combined field trip with DECA on December 14 and 15 took students to the Sheraton Centre, New York City, where they attended business seminars in accounting, fashion, and broadcasting.

The Future Business Leaders of America also went to Regional competitions in February and State competitions in April at Cherry Hill. At the competitions, Vernon students were compared with other FBLA members in the fields of accounting, data processing, typing, interview techniques, shorthand, office procedures, business graphics, and public speaking.

Savin' the day

The best laid plans can be totally destroyed when a loose wire, a burnt out bulb, or a jammed tray prevents audio-visual equipment from functioning. When the call for help is answered by Mr. John Bryan or one of his able student assistants, teachers can be quoted as saying "you're savin' the day!"

Day by day, the demand for VCR's gets greater. Teachers are using taped television presentations and pre-recorded features to supplement their classroom instruction. Currently, there are six VCR's and three video cameras in the school's inventory; five of the VCR's are VHS format and one is large format. In the greatest demand are the 2-4-6 hour models. With the number of home-owned machines, individuals are acquiring more knowledge of the operation and repair of the equipment. Trouble-shooting is now part of the normal routine.

Behind the scenes

From the first nail until the set comes down, the Stage Crew, known to their associates as "Techies," is busy at work. During the year technical talents are used to create special effects on the dimmer board; various light settings and intensities are used by the lighting captain. Sound effects are developed in ingenious ways that remain secret. The set is built from materials at hand or with what can be improvised.

The crew is first to arrive and the last to leave, from the first pep rally of the year to the finale of graduation. The techies are there making the events and productions appear effortless. Not true we know. Hours and hours of practice and expertise are required to create that impression.

Computer introduced into volunteer work

In the library during mod 8, senior Mark Miller and freshman Lauren Luchesi check out books for seniors Dan Scovell and Bill Sims.

Volunteer workers have traditionally been used to handle daily tasks for the office staff, administration, and guidance counsellors. Specifically, the students use their study hall time to be Library Aides, Attendance Runners, or Guidance Runners. They help Mr. Bate-man sign out books and run checked passes to study hall teachers. Others assist counsellors by delivering student appointment slips, collect daily absence forms, and distribute the attendance bulletin.

The newest facet of the job has been the introduction of a computer that permits quick and easily access to such information as a student's schedule or his home address. According to Mr. Barrie Beaver who coordinated the new set-up pusing a few buttons has replaced much work that was formerly done by hand; it saves many woman hours.

National Art Honor Society ... Art at its best

A select number of high school students are publicly acknowledged each year by the National Art Honor Society throughout the United States. These students are chosen because of their effort, attitude, and sense of dedication in the field of art. They have consistently demonstrated the highest qualities of art scholarship, service, and character.

The third annual induction ceremony was held on March 5, 1985, at 2:30 p.m. in the senior cafeteria. It was followed by a brief reception for the members and their guests. This occasion marked the opening of the national celebration of Youth Art Month. Art exhibits and demonstrations were held in the school and an exhibit was put in the municipal building by society members. These programs led up to the county and state Teen Arts Festivals in May and June.

"Each person has a unique talent and something special to contribute to the world. The artist has the added need to display this talent for others to see," said Mrs. J. Hornstra.

senior (sēn'yer) — n. 1. a person more advanced in dignity, rank, or office. 2. An undergraduate in his/her final year at an American high school.

Experiencing change

If variety is the spice of life, then the changes the Class of 1985 has experienced can only add zest to the best. New officers, new advisors, new plans characterized the fall of '84. When the Class of 1985 found themselves advisorless, Mrs. Carol Frey and Mr. Burke Cotter came to the rescue. Spirit week, the refreshment stand, the class trip, the prom, and graduation required planning. The class mural, the class dance, and class polls also got their share of attention.

Traditional events with non-traditional approaches became the hallmark of the year.

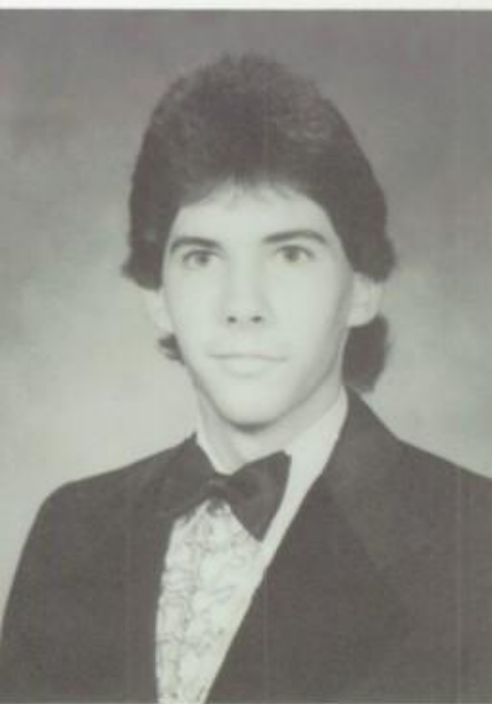

Advisor (ad-vī-zer), n. 1. one who gives information or notices. 2. one who counsels (advisees). 3. Mr. Burke Cotter, Mrs. Carol Frey.

Give them a Ten

Their friendship has stood the test of time

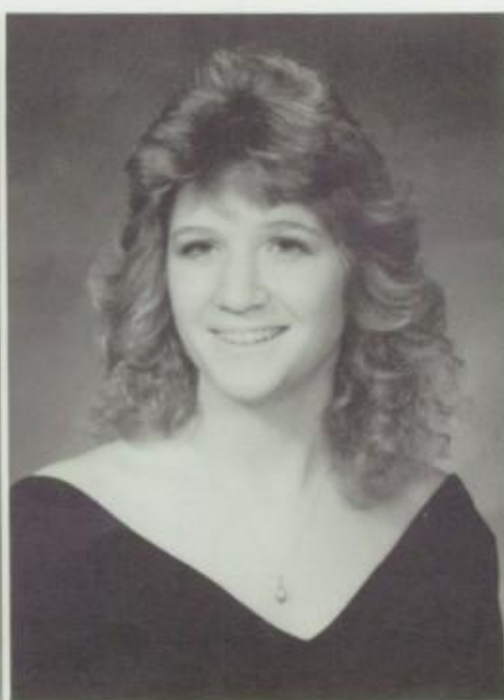

Ten is definitely the right number for class pals — Lenny Rinaldi and Rich Jansen who have been friends for ten years. What have they done since third grade? Some wild and crazy things that included getting Mohican haircuts and tatoos. They even pierced their own ears although that fad only lasted a week.

When asked what was the best experience they had together, they replied simultaneously "our cruise to a deserted island in the Bahamas." Recently Len and Rich have become business partners in landscaping. In the future they plan "to go to California together."

Hold onto your Hearts

The trail they've left behind is strewn with broken hearts — maybe a few laughs and definitely some wishful thinking. By popular vote, Tom Burns and Belinda Lindenburg were elected Class Flirts. Neither of them is embarrassed or insulted by the title. Belinda says flirting for her is all in fun; she knows it and so does everyone else. Tom, on the other hand, is rather shy and says he uses flirting to break the ice and start a conversation.

From Europe to Vernon

International cities of Europe contrast strongly with rural America. Four European students make up the second largest group of foreign exchange students to come to Vernon.

Lisa Irvine flew from Belfast to New York City on August 15, 1984. Although we consider Lisa a foreign exchange student, she has already graduated from high school in Ireland and has come to spend a year with the Durham family to experience American education.

Friedmann Horn is one of the two junior foreign exchange students both of whom have come from Germany. He likes school in America because the work is easier, but the rules are much stricter. Friedmann asked us to say, "Greetings to my family in Germany, to friends and, to the juniors at Leibniz-Gymnasiums High School".

Daniel Cavestany says, "Si vienes a Espana, te recibiremos tan bien como America me recibio a mi!" Daniel is very thankful for the hospitality that America has shown him. Daniel says, "If you go to Spain we'll receive you as well as America has received me!" Dan hopes to be involved in high school soccer, basketball, and tennis.

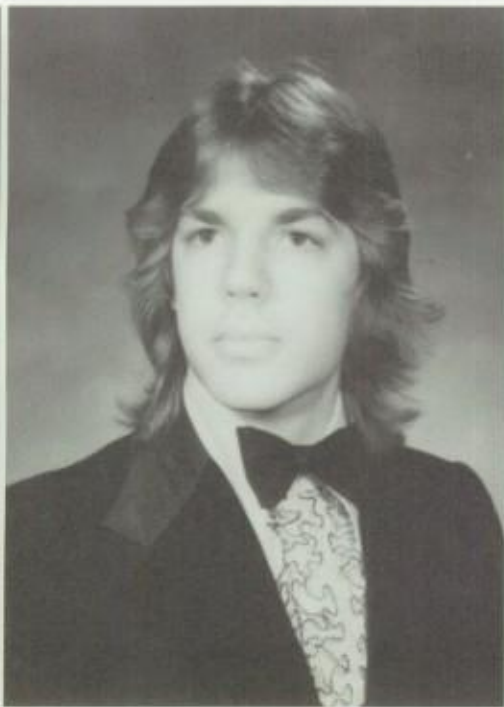

Chocolate chip cookies! Who would ever think America had one of the finest chocolate chip cookies. Christian Richter doesn't only admire that fact, but he also enjoys our large malls and high school sports-swimming, gymnastic track and cross country. Chris is a whiz at computers which is understandable when you know his attitude. "There's alot of work to do, go ahead and start. Es gibt viel zutun, faugt schon malan."

A success story — for today and tomorrow

Success is desired by everyone but is defined differently by different people depending upon the goals set. To April Macherone success will mean being able to help people and to Bill Batchelor it will mean liking his work. Both have been judged by their peers to have what it takes to succeed.

April is ranked number one in her class and has a grade point average of 3.97. She plans to attend Fairleigh Dickinson University and study some branch of medicine. A dream for April is to find a cure for dwarfism.

Bill leans toward the physical side of the sciences and will enroll in an electrical engineering program. His grade point average of 3.53 places him twelfth in the class of '85.

“Bustin out” becomes symbol for class

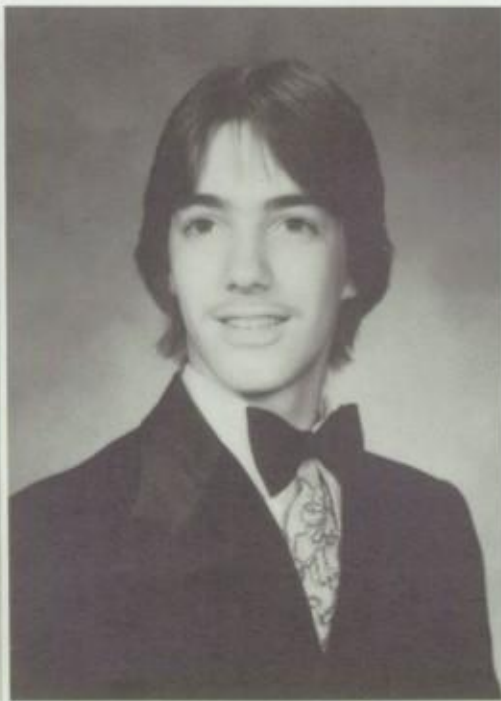

Many hours of dedication on the part of Mark Milan, Dave Gorham, and Chris Ruffo were required to complete the senior class mural. The mural design was based on a concept adapted from a ZZ-Top album. At the start of the project Mark, Dave, and Chris never dreamed that “bustin’ out” would become a symbol of the entire class.

The car represents the class of 1985 and the wall represents the school. Together they symbolize the breaking out into a life full of choices and new directions. The artists visualized these ideas using the airbrush techniques they learned at their Action Park summer jobs.

Do they dare to dream?

When you are the best at what you do, your class members will rightfully vote for you. Brian Stewart and Rose Santanello were voted Teachers' Nightmare.

Some may not consider the title an honor but Brian claims he is proud to have been chosen. He admits that his temper can get the best of him. He also claims he is indiscriminated—he is a nightmare to all his teachers.

Rose, on the other hand, believes she causes teachers to have nightmares because of her "superior intelligence and unending questions" the favorite of which is "why?". She says she is "radical, funny and exotic and that makes her an individualist." Rose thinks there should be a new category for her—teachers' nightmare doesn't quite describe her.

By definition, they're athletes

One who is trained or skilled in exercises, sports, or games requiring physical strength, agility, or stamina describes two seniors voted most athletic — Kirk Peat and Gail Werner.

Kirk Peat says "I love playing sports because I always feel sure about myself on the soccer field or basketball court. I'm serious when I'm playing but I also enjoy myself and have fun." He was named for his accomplishments to All-Area, All-SCIL, and NJ State Select Team for soccer. He gives credit to his parents and his brother because they always support him.

Gail Werner says "I love sports because I love the competition and thrill of victory." She was named for her achievements to All-Area, All West Jersey and All State for tennis, softball, and basketball. Gail gives credit to her coaches who have helped her to be a better person. She says "Mr. Trenz has helped me to think like an athlete and accept praise; the Hardins have always taught me to give 100% in everything I do and never to be satisfied with just being average."

Major fund raiser a success

Saturday afternoons were filled with fun and excitement for the seniors who operated the refreshment stand this past football season. The stand is one of the major fund raisers that builds each senior class treasury.

Under the direction of class advisors Mr. Burke Cotter and Mrs. Carol Frey, students Chris Gomm, Dawn Sutton, Carol Ragnetti, Vito Scarola, Sue Parak, Buffy Cowan, and Erin Henderson sold football fans candy, hot dogs, chips, hot chocolate, coffee, and tea. Hot dogs and hot chocolate were the most popular items. The students operating the stand considered the job a privilege and enjoyed helping the class.

If the project is judged solely on its financial success, the seniors can be proud. They added approximately two hundred dollars a week or a total of over eight hundred dollars to their bank balance.

Outside stand: Mike Rothwell, Rich Gennaro, Gary Newman, Marlena Schmidt, Carla Rapuano, Frank Spring. Inside stand: Mark Aug, Christy Schotter, Erin Henderson, Chris Ruffo, Chris Gomm, John Campbell.

Hey, Are you ok?

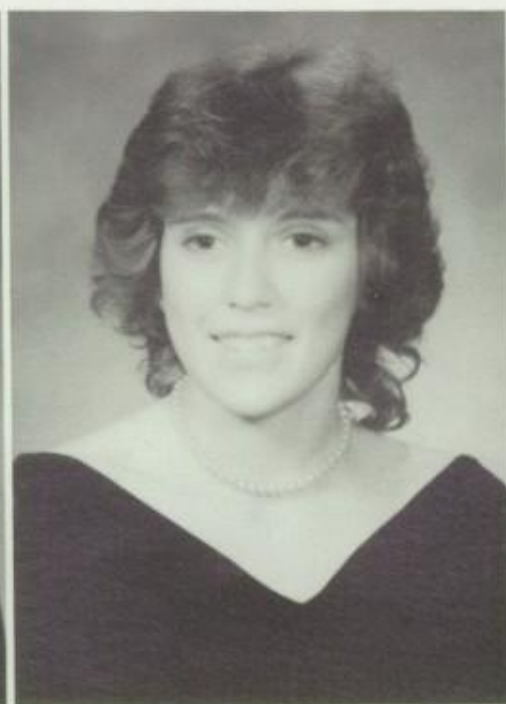

Crutches, bandages and tape are a familiar part of life for Rob vonEssen and Jill Daly. Both admit they are in a lot of accidents, but Jill doesn't feel that she deserves the title of most accident prone. She says "My worst accident was when I skied into a snow blower. I tore ligaments in my leg and was in a cast for three months." Rob can't think of anyone else who gets in more accidents than he does and recalls the worst accident occurred when he flipped his Mustang and had to spend a week in the hospital. Maybe Jill and Rob should take out stock in the Ace Bandage Company, but at the very least, maintain their health insurance policies.

Creative expressions

The ability to express yourself creatively in the visual arts comes from hard work as well as natural talent. Both Eileen Peters and Chris Gomm, voted class artist have been willing and interested in developing this special ability.

Eileen specializes in human portraits and particularly enjoys doing them in pastels. She also works in charcoal, pencil, oil, and clay; she is willing to experiment with new media and new ideas. She combines both the serious and humorous. Next year Eileen will be studying illustration and/or graphics in art school. Last summer she was an alternate for the Governor's school in fine arts.

Chris studied drawing and painting in ninth grade and commercial art in tenth but has not been able to schedule another art class since. However, when he can find the time, art is a form of relaxation and enjoyment for him. Although it's not a career goal for Chris, art will always be a part of his life. He has used his talent for the benefit of class and school activities.

Memorable Moment for Wendy Marklin

The added attraction of the halftime show at the October 27 football game turned an ordinary Saturday afternoon into something special. The event was Homecoming for the class of 1984 and alumni returned in great numbers.

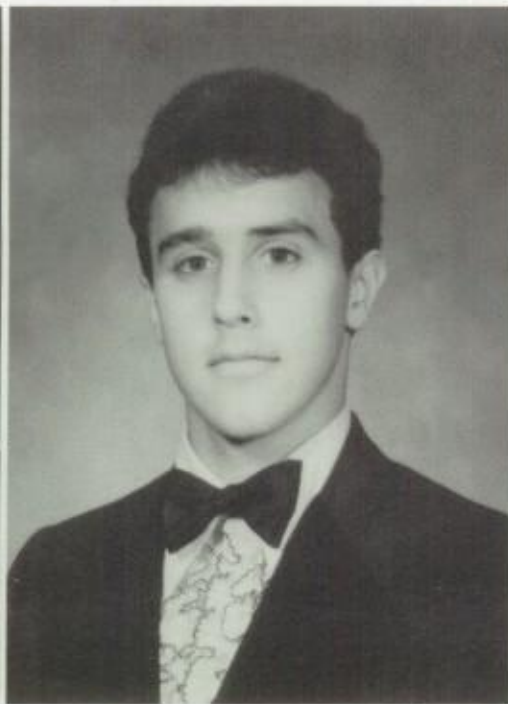

A memorable moment was in store for one of the five nominees chosen by the senior class. Stephanie Chapwick, Sherry Carbonara, Wendy Marklin, Rae Lyn Sullivan, and Dawn Sutton, together with their escorts, were greeted by a cheering Viking crowd. Anticipation mounted while everyone waited for the announcement of the vote for the 1984 Homecoming Queen. The winner was Wendy Marklin.

Wendy, the selection of the entire study body, commented that she felt "honored to be even a nominee, so when they announced that I had won, my feelings were both of shock and pride." Committee chairpeople Gail Werner, John Buonomo, and Jamie Reedy presented Wendy with her crown and roses.

Five Friends Forever

Five Senior girls. An inseparable team — Kelly Higgins, Sue Parak, Buffy Cowan, Erin Henderson, and Gail Werner were drawn together by their outgoing personalities and their ability to laugh at and with each other.

The five love having a good time together. Their favorite pastimes are busting on each other and everyone else, going to football games, hanging out windows and scaring people, and basically causing havoc wherever they go. If there is nothing to do, they make their own fun.

Since life is not all fun and games, serious times do arise for the girls. When they do, the five can talk to each other about anything and everything.

Kelly, Sue, Buffy, Erin, and Gail have enjoyed each other's close company and camaraderie for two years now and hope it stays that way throughout the years after high school.

You hafta laugh!

... says the seniors who voted Erin Henderson and Andy McGovern class clowns. Making people laugh seems to come naturally to these comedians.

Erin can make it very difficult for people to keep a straight face especially when she imitates her nerd Prudence or torments Mr. Toward Bateman in the library.

Being loud and mocking out the sergeant is Andy's specialty. He also has a unique talent for causing chaos in the senior cage at lunch time.

If laughing is what the doctor ordered, go see Erin or Andy to get your prescription filled.

How do you feel?

"We feel great!" is the enthusiastic response heard from Rae Lyn Sullivan and Mark Aug, the two seniors voted by the class of 1985 as having the most school spirit.

Rae Lyn was the chairperson of 1984 spirit week and headed up the cheer at the pep rally; she reminded us that school spirit was more important than class spirit. Rae Lyn was involved in drama, dancing, and choir. She has also played the leading role in the school production of Caberet.

Mark can almost always be found psyching up the fans with "Give me a V" during heated Viking competitions, leading the cheers at the pep rally while impersonating a female cheerleader, or standing out in the crowd with one of his infamous masks. He is a contributing member of the Viking basketball and baseball teams.

Advisers get advice on how to help

Remember your first day in high school? It probably was a time of great anxiety and a time of great fun. To help freshmen over the initial hurdles of high school life, senior advisers were assigned groups of ten frosh for counselling. The advisers under the direction of Mr. Michael Cannavale met with the freshmen to answer their questions and explain school policies. The real purpose was to give each freshman a personal contact among the upperclassmen.

In the second year of the program, advisers were sent to a leadership training session at Stillwater YMCA camp on October 28 and 29. Sensitivity skills, shouldering responsibility, and working together were part of an enjoyable (and exhausting) learning experience. Mr. William Gerbracht, instructor, and Mr. Rudolph Parrella, principal, believed that everyone who attended the session came out a winner.

Left: Erin Henderson, Dawn Sutton, Debbie Drew, and Principal Rudolph Parrella are in a huddle discussing tactics for the next play. A football game was "boys versus girls (and Mr. Parrella)." Seniors also saw the movie My Bodyguard and listened to Larry Amato play guitar. Below: Freshmen Tiffany Lanterman and Kim Diddio are talking with their senior adviser Kathi Arrotti.

A Decade of Finances

Proud we are to be number one . . . proud to be the lowest priced book in Sussex County while still maintaining first rate quality.

Ten years ago the Explorer staff produced a "8x10" book of 179 pages for ten dollars each. The professional photographer was Foxson of Hamburg and the publisher was Josten/American. The services of Crescione Studios of Paterson and Inter-Collegiate Press were used for a while. Today the Explorer is published by Hunter, a family operation out of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and photography services are provided by Almar of Spring Valley, New York. The 1985 Explorer is a "9x12" book of 220 pages and sells for seventeen dollars per copy.

The first edition numbered approximately 300 and the current volume will be limited to 825. With the change from all black and white to sixteen pages of full color, added spot color, increased number of pages, larger pages, special effects, and inflation, the total cost of producing the book has gone from $7,500 in 1975 to just over $18,000 in 1985.

All endings have new beginnings . . .

Kate,
I've enjoyed having you in lunch with me.
Good luck next year in 11th grade. Maybe you will be in the same lunch with me again. I hope so. Well, have a terrific summer vacation. Enjoy it while you can, school will be creeping around the corner before you know it.
Best wishes! Your friend,
Jill

Kate,
well this is it - enjoy your summer and have a great year. Love,

I've been great being your friend for this year. I have everything helping me with problems, heartaches, this year (trouble). Maybe more of friend to see year of
be able to see year of each other this year. Hey Kate -- we did this year. MGL festival?
when we havin' the over the summer! see ya
Love,
Jacy (Ziggy)

Dear Kate,

I'm very happy to have met you this year. You are a lovely person.

Please keep singing - you have a voice with a rich quality, and wonderful intonation. I think you also have an artistic personality, so, if one adds these factors together, one comes up with a fantastic vocalist. Keep growing in it!

Don't become discouraged in this school. Simply be determined to get as much from it as you can. To do that, be prepared to give. Just remember - you're not going to find any better than this school. So do what you can.

I'm sure I'll see you again!

Love,

Shirley

Look for my best-selling books in the future!

Kate,

It's been great knowing you it really is - I hope you have a great summer - I really do. Had luck with your wayfunder + good luck in 11th

Love
you,

Lanah.

Kate
Hi! Just think very very sorry

Kate -
I can't believe the year's over already!!
We had a pretty good time in Biology. It was a real joke!! I hope I made you laugh throughout the year!! Enjoy your high school years because they pass you by all too quick!! Don't forget to laugh along the way!!
It helps you get through the rough times.
I wish you all the success that the future can hold for you. Love always,

Kate,
Well we've had a real blast in Lisa
PE especially running the track
We also had loads of fun in Drivers Ed. Remember before you got in the car please know what you are doing because of you don't I'm not going to get in mine. Well have a blast over the summer. Don't party too much -
We'll see ya

Kate,

Kate - I always have hated to sign your books because I never know what to write. It seems weird that you wrote a 10 page essay in mine and I only write a itty bitsy blurb. Oh, well, cdt Kate - la vie. Good luck next year!

your friend always,
